Dr. Alfred Sze of Nanking Government Argues That Hope for World Disarmament Depends on Quick Settlement of Dispute.

DIRECT NEGOTIATIONS
DEMANDED BY TOKIO

Mikado's Envoy Declares Troops Can't Be Evacuated Rapidly but Nation Is Ready to Discuss 'Fundamental Points.'

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Oct. 12.—The League of Nations Council convened in extraordinary session today to consider the Sino-Japanese conflict in Manchuria, listened to statements by Dr. Alfred Sze, the Chinese delegate, and by Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese representative, and then adjourned to tomorrow without taking action. Foreign Minister Briand of France was in the chair in the absence of President Leroux of the Council, detained in Spain.

Dr. Sze, asserting the hope for world disarmament depends on the League's action now, denounced Japan's "violence and military aggression" and demanded that the League direct immediate action for the withdrawal of Japanese troops from Manchuria.

He invoked the League of Nations covenant and the Kellogg pact as "cornerstones of world peace" and asserted that China had lived up to the principles of the League under "terrible provocations." He emphasized that quick action was essential if "most unhappy souls" are to be avoided.

The Reply to Invasion.
"When our territory was suddenly invaded on a vast scale, our peaceful citizens died, what was our reply?" asked Dr. Sze.

The reply, he said, was in the form of three executive proclamations calling on the Chinese to resist the invasion and await the League's action.

"The covenant and the Kellogg pact are our two sheet anchors to which we have moored our ship of state," he said, and with the aid of those we believe we shall beat out this storm.

"But the covenant and pact are also the corner stone of a world-wide edifice of peace, and if they crumble, the world collapses."

COMMUNITY FUND TO JOIN

IN CAMPAIGN FOR $3,000,000

Drive for Largest Amount Ever Asked for in St. Louis to Begin Nov. 9 and Continue Until Nov. 19.

TWO MOTORISTS
KILLED BY TRAIN
AT GREENVILLE, ILL.

William C. Bechtel, 5033 Dewey Av., and Sister Enroute to Altamont to Visit Brother at Time.

William C. Bechtel, 5033 Dewey avenue, and his sister, Mrs. R. I. Helms of Philadelphia, were killed today when their automobile was struck by a Burlington train two and one-half miles east of Greenville, Ill., 50 miles east of St. Louis.

Bechtel and his sister, who was visiting him after a trip to California, left St. Louis this morning and were driving east on Highway No. 40 to visit a brother at Altamont. Their coupe was carried 200 yards by the engine and demolished. The train, a gasoline local carrying one coach, was stalled several hours due to damage from the collision.

The dead were identified through a railroad pass in Mrs. Helms' purse and a slip of paper bearing the name of a friend in Vandalia. A member of the train crew said Bechtel's auto appeared to skid on the wet pavement as he neared the tracks, which approach the highway at an angle, with the view obscured by a conflict. The crossing is protected by a wig-wag flashing signal, which members of the train crew said was in good order.

The bodies were taken to Greenville pending an inquest tomorrow. Bechtel, about 55 years old, was a dealer in secondhand bags.

BANK BUILDING BLOWN UP
BY ROBBERS WHO TAKE $2000
Lizton, Ind., Cut Off From Wire Communications by Two Auto Loads of Holdup Men.

LIZTON, Ind., Oct. 12.—Two automobile loads of robbers early today cut off the wire communications of this town, wrecked the State Bank building with a dozen blasts of nitroglycerin, shot up the town and escaped with more than $2000 in currency and negotiable securities amounting to more than $1500.

Shells from shotguns, revolvers and other firearms were scattered through the streets in the business section.

The Community Fund and the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment will seek to raise $3,000,000 in a joint campaign in St. Louis and St. Louis County from Nov. 9 to 19.

Of this amount, 75 per cent, or $2,250,000, is fixed as the share of the Community Fund and 25 per cent, or $750,000, as the share of the Citizens' Committee.

Sidney Maestre, president of the Community Fund, and Tom K. Smith, general chairman of the Citizens' Committee, have issued the following statement:

"Arrangements have been completed for a combined drive of the Community Fund and the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment for the funds both will require for their needs for the remainder of the year and for 1932. Largest Effort Ever Made Here.

"The dates of the campaign have been fixed from Nov. 9 to 19. The goal will be $3,000,000, to be divided as follows: Seventy-five per cent to the Community Fund and 25 per cent to the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment. This will give to the Community Fund approximately the same budget it had last year. It will give to the Citizens' Committee approximately the amount it is estimated the body should have to carry for its needs for the balance of this year and for the entire calendar year of 1932, together with the funds which the city government of St. Louis is being asked to provide.

We respectfully urge the united support of the people of this community in the largest effort for relief and welfare ever attempted in the history of the city. We have unbounded faith St. Louis, which never yet has failed to meet an emergency, will help us to make this campaign a success."

Catholic Organization Resigns.
Two officials of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, Catholic organization for the relief of the poor, resigned today from executive positions of the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment because of disagreement with its decision to conduct its campaign jointly with that of the Community Fund.

They are William L. Igo, president of the Catholic organization, and the Rev. John J. Butler, its secretary. Igo was vice chairman and member of the Executive Committee of the Citizens' Committee, and Father Butler a member of the Executive Committee. The Society of St. Vincent de Paul will meet Wednesday to consider the question of its future relations with the Citizens' Committee, Igo announces.

The goal of the Community Fund, which comprises 51 participating charitable agencies, slightly exceeds the amount raised last year, $2,200,538. The share of the Citizens' Committee was fixed to provide funds for the last three months of this year and the entire year of 1932, which otherwise would have been sought in private campaigns.

CHURCH AND STATE
SEPARATED BY VOTE OF SPANISH ASSEMBLY

MADRID, Oct. 13.—The National Assembly tonight separated church and state. By a vote of 267 to 41 the Assembly approved Article 3 of the new constitution which states "no state religion exists."

By this decision, when the new Constitution is finally enacted, centuries of official connection with the Catholic Church in Spain will end.

There has been conflict between the church and the state in Spain since the fall of Alfonso XIII. It came to a head several months ago with riots and burning of church property. In recent weeks the Assembly debate has centered principally on the issue of the church and state.

13 RESCUED AFTER DRIFTING
28 HOURS IN A MOTORBOAT

One of Party Swims Two Miles to Shore to Notify Long Island Coast Guard.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Thirteen persons, seasick and suffering from exposure and hunger, were rescued last night by a coast guard cutter after drifting 28 hours about Long Island Sound in a powerless motor boat.

The boat, the 45-foot cruiser Galicia, left the Morrisania Yacht Club Sunday under command of Capt. Charles George. It had been chartered by members of the Amuscutta Democratic Club for a fishing trip off Stamford, Conn. On the return journey, the motor was inundated by high waves and could not be started. The boat drifted 25 miles in the 28 hours to within two miles of Crane's Neck, L. I., from where Joseph Nydegger swam to shore to notify the coast guard.

Ten members of the party, including a 13-year-old boy, received medical attention.

U. S. Completes Testimony Without Calling Johnny Torrio Who Gave Grand Jury Evidence.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The Government completed its testimony today in the trial of Al Capone, gang leader, charged with evading payment of an income tax. The prosecution, which charges the big gangster with evasion of tax on a six-year income of $1,035,000, rested after a handwriting expert had testified that signatures on telegraphic money orders and other "Government exhibits were written by the defendant.

Johnny Torrio, the former Chicago gang boss, who appeared before the grand jury investigating the case, was subpoenaed as a witness for the trial, was not called to the witness stand.

Defense Attorney Michael Ahern announced that he would ask for a directed verdict "but I suppose you want no argument on that."

"I am willing to hear such a motion," replied Judge Wilkerson. "The case is against the defendant, saying 'perhaps we will bring some witnesses from New York.'"

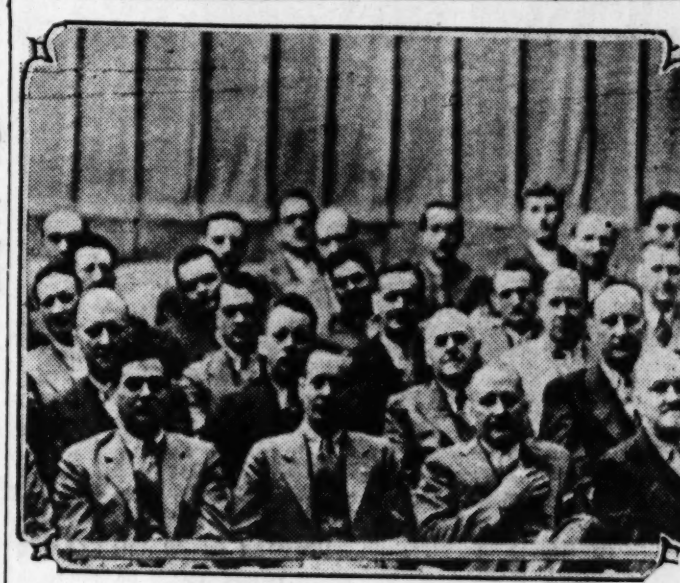

Proof Concerning Losses.
Attorney Ahern told the Court the defense wanted to "establish proof 'concerning some losses and so forth.'" Albert Fink, another defense attorney, added that witnesses to testify about Capone's losses would have to be brought from New York, Washington and Philadelphia.

To the Court's remark that "you have not told me what you intend to do," Fink replied that the Judge had not granted a bill of particulars in which the defense asked at the start of the trial for the list of Government witnesses.

"Why should we give the Government such information?" Fink said. Judge Wilkerson overruled the motion for a directed verdict and ordered the defense to begin its case at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

SUPREME COURT
MOVES TO DISBAR
ATTORNEY BANDY

Orders Granite City Lawyer to Appear in Washington—He Denies Giving It Worthless Checks.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Records of the United States Supreme Court show that Harold J. Bandy, Granite City, Ill., attorney, not only gave two checks totaling $85 which were returned marked "insufficient funds," but that he had also refused to pay the collect charges on a telegram sent him by the Court directing his attention to the fact that payment on the checks had been refused.

In ordering Bandy to show cause why he should not be disbarred from practice for giving the checks, the Court stated that the checks had been given last month, one for $10 and the other for $75 in payment of estimated costs in connection with the petition of a client, Harry Blockburger, who was seeking a review of his conviction at Springfield, Ill., for violating the Harrison narcotic act.

The Court in its order to Bandy declared that after he had refused on Sept. 28, to pay charges on its telegram, Bandy had written him the next day on the subject. Failing to receive a reply, the clerk, the Court stated, again wrote him Oct. 7, earnestly requesting an immediate reply, but that none had been received up to the time its order was entered yesterday.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 13.—Harold J. Bandy, Granite City attorney, declared here last night that the checks for $85 given by him to the Supreme Court in the Harry Blockburger case, were good.

"If they were returned marked 'not sufficient funds,' there is a mistake somewhere," he said. Bandy said he had received no notice to defend himself against disbarment proceedings.

Kountze Bros. Suspended by New York Stock Exchange for Insolvency—Firm Organized in 1870.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The old investment banking house of Kountze Bros., formed in 1870, was suspended by the Stock Exchange for insolvency today.

The firm at one time occupied a prominent position in bond underwriting, but has been less active in recent years. Its difficulties were attributed to the severe decline in the bond market in the past two months. The firm was not active in stocks. It maintained no out of town offices.

The current directory of the Stock Exchange lists the seven members of the firm as Charles T. Kountze, Herman D. Kountze, floor member, Stuart Sidney Furman, William H. Gregory, Dennan Kountze, Palmer D. Kountze, and Frank Edgar Andrus.

A formal statement issued by the firm said:

"The suspension of the firm of Kountze Bros. was brought about in the main by the extraordinary depreciation in the prices for high grade bonds on the exchange.

The Sarah-Olive Bank, 4053 Olive street, was robbed of about $6000 cash at 12:35 o'clock this afternoon by two armed men who forced five employees to lie on the floor of the vault, then cleared the cash from two teller's cages and fled, presumably to an automobile driven by a third robber.

A small amount of silver in the vault and $2500 in currency in the teller's cage were overlooked. The robbers made no attempt to steal drafts and securities in the bank's vault, nor did they lock the vault door on the employees before making their escape.

Teller Describes Holdup.
"I was at work in the first cage when the two holdup men entered," H. Melvin Buse, teller, told reporters. "One of them wore a hat, a small one and wore a brown suit. The other was taller and wore a dark suit."

"As they stepped up to my cage I thought them to be customers. One of them, the one with the bumpy chin took a half-dollar from his pocket, laid it down and asked for 50 pennies. I was counting them out when I heard him say something. I glanced and found myself looking down the barrel of a pistol."

"This is a holdup," he said, "get back into the room." The room was in the cage reading a letter, his back turned, and did not hear the command. The holdup man went into the cage, cursed Buse, and told him to follow Buse to the rear of the banking room.

On the way to the back of the room the holdup men ordered Harold Harris, a bookkeeper, from one of the cages, and in the rear of the room they rounded up John Merle, bookkeeper, and Miss Beatrice Eberle, a stenographer.

"They forced us to go into the vault and lie on the floor," Buse continued. "They looked around a bit and one of them picked up a bundle of bank notes. He examined them, then laid them down. They told us to keep quiet, and then we could hear them for a few moments out in the banking room."

"Finally we heard them leave and a few moments later we heard an automobile start up out in front. We ran out into the banking room and telephoned the police. In a brief check a few minutes later I found the robbers had overlooked $2500 in cash in my cage."

Immediately following the robbery employees and officials of the bank gave estimates of the loss ranging from less than $3000 to a maximum of $8000. The final figure, $6000, represents the loss in round numbers as announced by Buse, the vice president, following an audit at the close of the day's business.

The Sarah-Olive Bank is one of the few that have no alarm buzzer connecting directly with the nearest district police station. The loss was insured.

BRUENING TELLS REICHSTAG POLICY OF CONCILIATION WON'T BE CHANGED

German Chancellor Is Heckled by Communists During Speech; Parliament Building Surrounded by Police for Session.

CONVERSATIONS WITH FRANCE TO GO ON

Asserts "the Far Seeing Initiative of President of the United States Unfortunately Brought Only Passing Relief."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—The German foreign policy of reconciliation remains unchanged, Chancellor Bruening told the Reichstag immediately after presenting his new cabinet today.

"I shall continue the foreign policy in the spirit of the conversations of the last few months, especially the most recent Franco-German conversations," Chancellor Bruening declared at the opening of the session.

The governmental declaration was punctuated continually by hisses, laughter and angry cries of "Dictatorship," and "Inflation" from the Communists.

After the reading of the Government's declaration, which was applauded by the middle parties, while the social democrats remained silent, the Reichstag adjourned until tomorrow.

Extraordinary precautions had been taken to prevent rioting and window smashing, such as marked the opening of last autumn's session. The streets were patrolled by a strong force of police, and the Reichstag building resembled a fortress, with police trucks parked around it.

Brueening's Speech. "The Reich's Government does not expect salvation solely through international negotiations, or with the aid of foreign countries, but Germany during the past decade has experienced more than all her neighbors how the unsolved problems of the world have increased domestic distress to the limits of what is bearable and have nourished a growing despair in all sections of our people," Bruening said. "That is why Germany has a right to appeal to all the peoples of the world at last to translate their efforts for an indispensable common effort into practical deeds."

After emphasizing the interdependence of nations, Bruening said that "the far-seeing initiative of the President of the United States unfortunately brought only passing relief."

However great the significance of the Hoover memorandum and however grateful the German people are for it, the Chancellor said, "nevertheless the uncertainty regarding the question of political settlements alone continuously hampers international economic and financial intercourse."

Motion to Withdraw Police. The members of the Nationalist opposition waited a while after Chancellor Bruening had finished his speech before they entered the Reichstag chamber. Reading of the governmental message was constantly interrupted from the left side of the House.

A Communist speaker complained that the Parliament building was surrounded by such an immense police force that it appeared to be a besieged fortress, but his motion to have the police withdrawn was rejected.

On the economic side, the Chancellor characterized the Government's task as that of taking measures to the changing manifestations of world economy, thereby preventing an upheaval of the bases of Germany's economic life. For instance, he said, it was possible to reduce the floating debt by 300,000,000 marks (approximately $83,000,000) which would be used for salvaging private industry.

To help the Government during this period of crisis, he announced, President Von Hindenburg had approved the appointment of an economic advisory body which is to work out an economic program for the ensuing months.

"Under no circumstances must the stability of Germany's exchange be interfered with," he said. "Of decisive importance is the execution of a plan for meeting short term indebtedness and a final solution of the reparations question."

The Chancellor charged big industries with having embarked upon expansionist programs with the aid of foreign credits at the expense of the middle classes and smaller industries.

Among the Government's economic and financial tasks of the immediate future, he enumerated lower interest rates by banks, especially to smaller undertakings; continuation of social services such as pensions and the dole, but their adaptation to financial and economic necessities; continued maintenance of the right of collective bargaining by labor, although with

IMPROVEMENT OF 16 STREETS OPPOSED AT PUBLIC HEARING

Board Defers Action on Fourteen Projects and Abandons Two Others.

General objection to the proposed improvement of 16 streets was offered by property owners on the ground of unemployment, uncertain rents, and the depression at a public hearing at the Board of Public Service today.

Because of the objection decision on 14 of the projects was deferred until Friday, and two were abandoned.

One of the more important projects is the proposed paving with asphalt of Enright avenue, from Taylor avenue to Kingshighway. H. A. Knutson, 4442 Enright avenue, spokesman for 50 property owners opposing the paving, asserted several owners are having a struggle to pay the assessment in connection with the recent winning of the street from 50 to 60 feet.

The paving of McPherson avenue, from Nina place to Skinker boulevard, at an estimated cost of $27,300, was another of the projects meeting with objection. The two proposed paving jobs abandoned are Lucy street, from Tholoan avenue to Oleatha avenue, and Dor street, from Minnesota to Compton avenue.

CONFESSES PART IN KILLING AND NAMES ACCOMPLICES

By the Associated Press. JOPLIN, Mo., Oct. 12.—County officials today announced that a confession by Lester Edgington, 34 years old, Joplin, involving accomplices, had cleared up a two-year-old mystery surrounding the murder of R. T. Thompson, Joplin watchmaker, shot when sitting in a parked automobile with a woman companion.

Authorities said Edgington's confession asserted Oscar Osborn, 27 years old, of Central City, fired the fatal shot. Robbery, he said, was the motive for the murder. Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison, Riverton, Kan., involved in the confession, have been arrested.

The confession, authorities said, cleared John Boone, held in jail for several months in connection with the murder. The charges against Boone were dismissed. He is said to have confessed the murder while under the influence of narcotics at El Paso, Tex., where he was arrested.

Officers said later that Osborn, who is under arrest, had made a confession in which he admitted firing the fatal shot.

Alleged to Have Ignored Injunction Against Illegal Resort. A citation issued by Circuit Judge Hartmann today ordered Ida M. Henech, alias May Smith, to show cause, if any, on Oct. 29 why she should not be punished for contempt of court.

The citation was issued at request of John H. Miller, attorney who alleged she ignored an injunction issued a year ago directing her to cease operating the premises at 2409 S. Cass avenue as an illegal resort. The injunction order was one of several obtained by the Circuit Attorney, who proceeded against such resorts under the statute which provides for abating of a nuisance.

U. S. EXPECTING LEAGUE TO AVERT WAR IN FAR EAST

Becomes Virtual Member of Geneva Body by Sending Observer to the Extraordinary Session.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The growing danger of war between Japan and China in Manchuria today occupied the administration's attention to the virtual exclusion of pressing domestic problems. Official concern over the situation was dramatically emphasized when Secretary of State Stimson telephoned Prentiss Gilbert, the American Consul at Geneva, and instructed him to be present as an observer when the Council of the League of Nations met in extraordinary session today to consider China's protest.

It is the first time in history that the United States has had an official observer at a meeting of the League Council, and this fact, coupled with the fact that the meeting actually was called at Secretary Stimson's suggestion, was recognized as an important expression of American confidence in the League.

Secretary Stimson previously had called a memorandum to Gilbert, defining this Government's position in the Manchurian crisis and urging co-operation between the League and the United States in settling the dispute. This was communicated orally to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League, who responded by calling a special session of the council.

Yesterday, Stimson, after directing Gilbert to attend, also instructed him to inform the Council that the United States is prepared to join with the League in invoking the Kellogg-Briand treaty to prevent war.

Virtual Member of League. In this particular case, therefore, the United States is virtually acting as a member of the League, without technically becoming a member of it. That Stimson is acting with the full approval of President Hoover cannot be doubted.

He visited the White House yesterday and went over the whole situation with the President in detail.

There is no attempt among responsible officials here to deny the gravity of the situation. It is privately admitted that Japan's actions in invading Manchuria, occupying strategic points and bombarding defenseless cities, constitute a direct challenge to the integrity of the Kellogg-Briand treaty, outlawing war, and to the Nine-Power pact, and to the League of Nations.

On the other hand, it is realized that an acute situation prevails in Japan. The military influence, which there not only have obtained the upper hand over the civil authorities, but are believed here to have the support of Japanese public opinion. The United States Government hesitates to take any action which might aggravate Japanese feelings, which explains its unprecedented appeal to the League of Nations.

A high Government official, in explaining the Manchurian problem, pronounced it "one of the most delicate and serious in the world today."

Large Interests in Manchuria. Although Manchuria is a Chinese province, Japan and Russia have large interests there, and have fought over them in the past. So large are the respective stakes and so intense is the feeling that the United States or no other neutral nation is willing to intervene singly for the purpose of enforcing a settlement. Hence the decision to act collectively through the League.

Thus far China has endeavored to avoid a settlement through direct negotiation with Japan, Chinese officials pointing out that Japan not only is superior in military strength but already has occupied strategic points.

Ambassador Debutch of Japan called on Secretary Stimson yesterday and renewed assurances that Japan has no territorial designs upon China. But it is realized here that Ambassador Debutch belongs to the peace party in Japan which has been powerless to prevent the military and naval movements which are responsible for the present condition. He and his direct superiors in Tokyo are credited with the best intentions in the world, but without power to carry them out.

As a matter of fact, reports received from its observers in Manchuria state that Japanese troops have not been withdrawn from the occupied areas outside the Manchurian Railway zone. On the contrary they indicate that Japanese military movements are being carried out precisely as if there had been a formal declaration of war.

Secretary Stimson, having definitely decided to cast this Government's lot with the League in any attempt that may be made to settle the dispute, is adhering to a policy of silence. He would not say whether his communication to the League meant that the United States was prepared actively to invoke existing treaties against Japanese aggression. He declined also to say whether the United States had communicated directly with China or Japan, although there is reason to believe it has done so.

There is no doubt the administration believes that Japan has acted contrary to the letter and spirit of the Kellogg-Briand treaty and the Nine-Power pact, but realization of the inflated state of opinion in Japan prevents this Government from acting alone. Officials believe that any attempt on the part of a neutral government to intervene would simply make matters worse. The United States is depending on the League to avert a formal declaration of war.

China, Japan Make Pleas to League

"while invading armies had been killing her peaceful citizens."

Japan Presents Its Side.

The Japanese representative presented his side of the case when the Council reconvened after lunch.

Japan still insists on direct negotiations with China, he told his colleagues, and meanwhile an official note from his government indicates that its military operations in Manchuria are at a standstill. Since the beginning, operations of Japanese troops, he said, have been for the protection of Koreans and Japanese against the "robber mandate."

As for the bombardment of Chinchow, he was instructed to say, the Japanese Government explains it as in retaliation for a Chinese attack on Japanese planes. These planes had been dispatched to Chinchow for reconnaissance when it was reported that Chinese soldiers were assembling there along the South Manchurian railway.

Says Japan Is Cautious. "It is clear that no state of war exists," said a note from his government which the Japanese representative read to the Council, "but Japanese troops are obliged to observe attentively the movements of Chinese troops and to take careful measures of precaution."

It is not correct to say that the situation is aggravated, the note read, "in the face of anti-Japanese agitation by which China herself is aggravating the situation. Japan has uniformly adopted an attitude of patience and calm."

Absence of guarantees for the safety of the Japanese population and property forbids rapid evacuation of troops in Manchuria, the note went on, but the Japanese Government is ready to discuss with Chinese representatives certain fundamental points necessary for the maintenance of normal relations.

Briland, in opening this meeting, expressed appreciation for the interest and support of the United States in the League's effort to establish peace.

Lord Reading represented Great Britain and Dino Grandi was the delegate for Italy. Other nations represented were Germany, Poland, Spain and Yugoslavia.

The chairman reviewed the events leading up to the conflict and recalled the promises of both parties not to aggravate the situation. He said the Council's hopes for a peaceful settlement, unhappily, had not been realized.

CHINA ANSWERS JAPAN'S WARNING

By the Associated Press.

NANKING, Oct. 12.—Peking action by the League of Nations Council in the Sino-Japanese dispute, China today answered the Tokyo Government's recent demand for the suppression of anti-Japanese demonstrations in China.

The reply was handed to Japanese Consul Uemura in the absence of Minister Shigemitsu, who left for the League of Nations.

Japan's First Principle. The Japanese representative stated that today the Japanese Foreign Office, working in perfect accord with military authorities, had agreed on a nucleus of principles on which Japan stands ready to discuss a settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

The first question considered was with whom to negotiate. Japan has stated at the beginning that she was ready to talk peace with responsible Chinese authorities, whoever they might be.

Outlining the Foreign Office policy, a spokesman said the fundamental question between the two countries would naturally have to be taken up with Nanking, while discussion of details of lesser importance would be held with whatever authorities were available.

Japan's first principle is that anti-Japanese agitation in China

here this morning for Shanghai on a Japanese warship.

High officials' quarters disclosed that today's Chinese reply to Japan's warning against anti-Japanese demonstrations reiterated that the Japanese invasion of Southern Manchuria was a violation of international agreements and would contend that the occupation constituted a state of war.

The Chinese reply was understood also to contend that both the Chinese and Japanese Governments, bringing members of the League and signatories to the Kellogg pact regarding war, should seek a peaceful solution of the disputes, but that the league had asked Japan to withdraw her troops from Manchuria and Japan had refused.

The Chinese reply also was understood as having stated that the Chinese Government never had offered armed resistance and had kept the feeling of the Chinese people in check, protected Japanese lives and property, and fulfilled her promises to the league.

In accordance with a League of Nations Council suggestion, China's reply is understood to say the Chinese Government appointed representatives to take over territory occupied by the Japanese, but that Japanese troops never were withdrawn, as Japan had promised.

The Chinese answer also was said to have argued that the unpopularity of Japanese goods in China had been caused by Japan's unfriendly acts and that the Chinese Government could not interfere with the freedom of trade. He would go to Shanghai tomorrow to meet Canton delegates who seek reunification of China.

Nanking reports indicate further progress toward peace with the Canton insurgent government. Han-min, former President of the Nanking Legislative Yuan (Senate), whom President Chiang Kai-shek kept virtually a prisoner at Nanking for six months, obtained his freedom today. He said he would go to Shanghai tomorrow to meet Canton delegates who seek reunification of China.

China's Answer Additionally. was stated to have said that she would continue to protect Japanese lives and property, but that if Japan continued to use war as an instrument of national policy she must be held responsible for the consequences.

The Chinese Government says there at present are 25 Japanese warships on the Yangtze River.

Japanese Authorities Agree on Nucleus of Principles.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Oct. 12.—Announcement was made here today that the Japanese Foreign Office, working in perfect accord with military authorities, had agreed on a nucleus of principles on which Japan stands ready to discuss a settlement of the Manchurian controversy.

The first question considered was with whom to negotiate. Japan has stated at the beginning that she was ready to talk peace with responsible Chinese authorities, whoever they might be.

Outlining the Foreign Office policy, a spokesman said the fundamental question between the two countries would naturally have to be taken up with Nanking, while discussion of details of lesser importance would be held with whatever authorities were available.

Japan's first principle is that anti-Japanese agitation in China

ON TRIAL FOR THIRD TIME FOR KILLING VINCENZO VITALE

Vincenzo Moncada's First Jury Verdict, Second Gave Him Life, but He Won Appeal.

The third trial of Vincenzo Moncada, former grocer and saloonkeeper at 1510 Wash street, on a charge of first-degree murder in the killing of Vincenzo Vitale, was held today in Circuit Judge Ryan's court.

At the first trial, June 21, 1930, the jury failed to agree and at the second, in November, 1930, Moncada was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Several months ago, however, the Missouri Supreme Court reversed the conviction on the ground that the trial judge had not given the jury instructions regarding the self-defense plea which Moncada made.

The State sought to show at previous trials that Moncada had gone to Vitale's home, 1219 1/2 Blair avenue, and quarreled with him about the character of Vitale's brother, Vito, with whom Moncada was acquainted. Moncada's defense was that he had been summoned to Vitale's home after he had refused to pay extortion money to two agents of Vitale.

Henry Auell, 66 years old, was shot and killed by two robbers behind his home at the out- of Alton last night when he refused to tell them what he had done with the day's receipts from the gasoline filling station, about 1/2 mile from Alton.

Auell's wife, their foster daughter, Miss Stella Williams, and Lester Platt, a neighbor, had just returned from the filling station. Platt, who was driving, stopped the Auell automobile in the driveway and Auell alighted to open the garage doors.

He passed from sight momentarily and his companions heard someone accost him saying: "Give us the loot." Auell, who was hard of hearing, said "What?" and the other voice demanded excitedly: "The loot, the loot. Where's the money?"

"One of your business," Auell was heard to reply. Immediately there were two shots in close succession and two men dashed out of the yard and down the alley. Auell slipped to the ground. He had been shot in the mouth and was bleeding.

Looks for Robbers.

Mr. Auell, Miss Williams and Platt rushed into the store which the Williams operated below the filling station. One of the women handed Platt a revolver and he rushed out to look for the slayers. Auell dropped the filling station receipts on the floor. Someone turned on the store lights, illuminating the corner of Viewland and the alley. Two blocks away, north of the line between Alton and Alton, Auell and Platt ran out.

Down Viewland avenue, he saw the figure of a man, running. He heard the man fall, arose and saw the shooting. He saw the robbers and was chasing one of them when Platt fired. He saw his brother, C. H. Rogers, were wounded.

Wounded Man's Story.

Ray Rogers told Alton police he was going to bed at 10:30 p. m. when he heard loud voices and rushed out to see three men, one of whom Auell standing beside him. Suddenly, he said, he saw the men fired twice at Auell. The man who fired was wearing a dark suit and no hat. Rogers said the other man had dark hair and no coat. My brother and I ran downstairs. As we got outside, the man in the dark suit ran past us. He ran all the way down the alley and passed us. I told my brother to get into the house and chased him. He was pretty far ahead of me.

Further details concerning Capone's residence in Florida were given by Russell Garnett of Miami and C. A. Roy of Miami Beach. Garnett said he rented Capone a home for six months in the winter of 1927-28, and the gang chief paid $2500 rent—all in $100 bills.

Roy, an interior decorator, said he supervised $1500 worth of work in 1929 and 1930 on the home which Capone later purchased. Capone would wear nothing but the finest silk underwear, Jake Pankam and several other department store salesmen testified.

"He paid $12 a suit for winter wear," said Pankam, "and $5 a garment for shirts and shorts in the summer. They were made of the finest silk, the same kind used in making ladies' gloves."

The Capone wardrobe, according to other salespeople, includes $150 overcoats, $135 suits, $4.95 neckties, $2.75 handkerchiefs, $27.50 shirts (plus $1 each for monogram), $2 collars. He buys, they said, $250 worth of ties and handkerchiefs at a time, $300 worth of shirts, $30 worth of silk underwear. One store sold him $3715 worth of suits and overcoats in two years.

Gangster's Custom-Made Autos.

Custom-made automobiles have cost from $5500 to $12,500, witnesses said. Thousands of dollars went for Chinese rugs, glassware and knick-knacks.

Henry E. Keller, an old engineer and dock builder from Miami, told, as had many others before him, of receiving prompt payment, in currency, for services rendered the gang leader. He was $550, he said, for work on the Palm Island (Fla.) estate. Then the witness launched into a chatty account of a conversation he once had with Capone, and he was allowed to continue despite defense objections.

sign it and then give it to Guzik or one of his men.

The Government introduced as exhibit A a batch of these cashiers' checks, most of them for $5000, and one made out to "Al Capone."

Edward Waters, a former revenue agent, told of interviewing Capone in either 1922 or 1923 regarding income tax matters, but he insisted that "my brain is not an adding machine" and that he could recall nothing of the conversation.

Judge Wilkerson questioned Waters about his lack of memory, and the defense attorneys called him back after he had been excused from the stand to state that he had not discussed the case with defense attorneys or any one connected with Capone.

Reckless Race-track Winnings.

Waters said he asked told to Capone in 1925, asking the gangster about a newspaper story which stated that Capone had won $1,000,000 on the track and that he owned a string of horses. The witness replied that Capone might have won that sum, but he could not recall anything of the conversation.

One of Capone's Christmas gifts, a $275 diamond belt buckle, was introduced as evidence and examined by the jurors yesterday.

Much of Capone's Christmas shopping was said to have been at two Chicago jewelry stores. Samuel J. Steinberg, jeweler, said all purchases at his establishment in 1927 and 1928 totaled more than $3000.

"Why a few weeks before Christmas in 1926," said Steinberg, "Mr. Capone came in and bought all the ladies' jeweled hand bags we had in the place. There were about 20 of them and they cost $22.75 each. "Later he came back and bought 30 diamond studded belt buckles at $275 each. I supposed he gave them to friends. He paid cash for both purchases."

$9000 for 50 Friends.

Thus, it was testified, Al paid out about $9000 for presents for 50 friends that year.

U. S. ALLOWS CONVICT TO KEEP HIS CANARIES

Rule Recently Adopted Not to Apply to Robert Strout in Solitary Confinement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Robert Strout, life prisoner in solitary confinement at the Leavenworth Federal penitentiary, may continue to raise canaries under a plan being worked out by the prison bureau of the Department of Justice.

The profits from the sale of canaries will be turned over to the prison fund for the benefit of the convicts. Strout will be permitted to draw a salary in the form of a share of the profits.

It is understood the salary will be for extra duties performed. That way the prison officials will not violate the rule adopted July 28 by the board, which provides: "The conduct of outside business affairs by inmates, except to the extent specifically approved by the Warden, is prohibited."

In letters being sent by the Department of Justice in response to persons who object to Strout's being deprived of the privilege of continuing in the canary business, it is stated the prison bureau desires him to raise canaries. The bureau asserts also that Strout is satisfied to remain in solitary confinement and does not desire to be moved to other quarters.

Strout, who is about 40 years old, was sentenced to life imprisonment for murder from Alaska 18 years ago. Three years after entering Leavenworth he murdered a guard, and was sentenced to death. President Wilson commuted his sentence to solitary confinement for the remainder of his life and, and for the last 15 years he has been confined in a solitary cell, except for an exercise period each day in a private yard. He is not allowed to mingle with any other prisoners.

To occupy his lonely days in the cell from which he cannot see outside except on tiptoe through a tiny grated window, Strout took up the study of mathematics from books from the prison library.

After years of this, he studied music from the works of masters. A woman heard of his plight and sent him a pair of canaries about 10 years ago and from that time he has added to his stock from the gifts of friends. Mating and training these birds has been his only diversion for years, and he sells the singers through his guards to other prisoners in the institution.

Strout's mother removed from Alaska to Kansas City to be near her son. Only she and persons with a special permit are permitted to see him. He has told visitors that he hopes to become eligible for parole after about 25 years in solitary confinement.

sitting around after lunch," Keller related, "and Mr. Capone said to me, 'Dad, where are you from?'"

"I said, 'I'm from New York. I was born and raised in the old Twentieth Ward.'"

"And Mr. Capone said, 'I came from New York, too. The first job I ever had was tending bar at Coney Island.'"

The witness nodded to Capone as he was led out of the courtroom and Capone smiled.

The case of Philip D'Andrea, who considered it necessary to guard Capone with a pistol in court, was continued today until Friday by Judge Wilkerson, who commented scathingly and at length on the contempt charges. D'Andrea was returned to the jail cell he has occupied since Saturday, has occupied.

VERDICT DOCTOR STABBED SELF TO DEATH IN OFFICE

Body of Dr. Sherman J. Pope Found When His Wife Calls to Take Him Home.

A Coroner's verdict of suicide while suffering from a temporary mental aberration was returned today in the death of Dr. Sherman J. Pope, former Municipal Clinic physician, whose body, with the blade of a carving knife in his left side, was found in his locked office at 2320 Washington avenue last night.

Dr. Pope's action was explained in a note, written on a prescription blank, received through the mail at his home this morning. The note, presented at the inquest by Mrs. Myrtle Pope, the widow, read: "My wife: Forgive me for what I am about to do. I am sick in mind and body, and unable to carry on. My insurance is good. I have not signed the lease, so you can do whatever you think best. Love, Sherman J. Pope." The reference to the lease was not explained at the inquest.

Mrs. Pope testified her husband suffered an injury about a year ago when he fell in the bathtub. Recently he had been under treatment for a nervous disorder.

The body was found at 7:20 o'clock when Mrs. Pope called at her husband's office to take him home in the family car, as was her custom. In a telephone conversation 30 minutes earlier Dr. Pope said he would be ready to leave at the usual time.

On finding the private office door locked Mrs. Pope requested a patient sitting in the waiting room to look through the transom. The patient reported that Dr. Pope was lying on the floor. Police were summoned and forced open the door.

Dr. Martin C. Woodruff, occupying an adjoining office, told police that Dr. Pope borrowed the knife used to cut handgrips, from him several weeks ago, explaining that he wanted it for protection against robbers. Dr. Pope also requested that he bring a revolver to the office, but he did not comply with this request. Dr. Woodruff said. Several months ago Dr. Woodruff found Dr. Pope unconscious in his office, he told police. Upon being revived, Dr. Pope explained that he had taken an overdose of morphine through mistake, Dr. Woodruff said.

Dr. Pope, who was 61 years old, lived at 2801 Lafayette avenue with his wife and a son, Frank. He was graduated from the old Barnes Medical College in 1904. In 1912 he was appointed to the staff of the municipal clinic, serving there until 1925, when he returned to private practice. Dr. Pope was a brother of Dr. Charles H. Pope, a physician with offices in the Railway Exchange Building.

Judging of World Dairy Champions Is Under Way at National Show

Man o' War 30th Selected as Senior and Grand Champion Holstein Bull—Jerseys and Ayrshires Tomorrow.

Breeders of pedigreed dairy stock reached the climax of the day today as selection of the dairy cattle champions of the world began at The Arena.

First to enter the judging, ring at the National Dairy Show were dignified black and white Holsteins, some of them weighing more than 2500 pounds.

Champion Bull Chosen.

Man o' War 30th was judged senior champion and grand champion of all Holstein bulls, and Sir Fobes Ormsby Hazelwood, junior champion.

Winners in six classes for Holstein bulls were: Calves four months to a year old, Mount Pleasant King Ona Pleterte, owned by the Iowa Board of Control at Des Moines; bulls a year to 18 months old, Sir Triton Fanny 55, of the Milford Meadows Farm, Lake Mills, Wis.; bulls 18 months to 2 years old, Sir Fobes Ormsby Hazelwood, Elmwood Farm, Deerfield, Ill.; 2 to 3 years old, King Bessie Kordyke Ormsby, Elmwood Farm; 3 to 4 years old, Man o' War 30th, owned by Edward Hoffman, Menomonie, Wis.; over 4 years old, Ormsby Burke Segis Lad, of the Wisconsin Board of Control, Madison. The champions were selected from these winners.

The smaller Jerseys and Ayrshires will pass before the judges tomorrow and the Guernseys and Brown Swiss will make their debut in the ring Thursday.

California Judges Win.

The cattle judging team, from California, students at Tomales High School at Bloomfield, won the vocational students' contest yesterday. Second place went to the Massachusetts team, third to the Illinois team from Ridgefarm High School, fourth to the Kansas team from Norton High School, and fifth to the Tennessee team from Sevier High School. Medals were awarded last night at the students' annual dinner at the Missouri Hotel.

Winners in the 4-H Club judging contest, participated in by teams from 24 states, will be announced at a club dinner tomorrow noon at Hotel Coronado. More than 500 club members, the dairymen of the future, are participating in the show.

The milkmaids' contest began yesterday, with young women from various sections of the country competing. The elimination contests are held at 10 a. m. and 8 p. m., preliminary to the finals Saturday. Some of the contestants protested yesterday that the cows given them to milk were not of sufficiently uniform quality. Attendance at the show was 871.

Women's Home Exposition.

Addresses on farm economics and problems affecting the farm housewife were given this morning at the Women's Home Exposition, on the mezzanine floor. The Federation of Women's Clubs held a luncheon there today. The Mothers' Club "Kitchen Band" of Gundlach School was sponsor of a program this afternoon. A baby parade was scheduled also. Soldan High School pupils and the Webster Theater Guild will present one act playlets tonight.

St. Louis County day will be observed at the dairy show tomorrow. Many of the spectators will drive to the show in a parade, leaving Clayton at 1:45 a. m. County officials and organizations will participate. A civic club luncheon, composed of all the civic clubs in the county, will be held at noon at The Arena.

The National Dairy Association will hold a dinner at Hotel Coronado tonight, commemorating the twenty-fifth anniversary of the show. Charles E. Williams, chairman of the Show Committee, will be toastmaster.

Outlines Growth of Show.

Charles L. Hill, Rosendale, Wis., president of the association, spoke from the show on a national radio broadcast yesterday, outlining the growth of the exhibition since its inception in 1906. Despite financial depression, he said, that breeders are here with as many cattle as ever, showing confidence in the dairy business at a time when many industries are almost at a standstill.

Exhibits of dairy products and poultry indicate the same confidence, he said, and added that there is a tendency to go into dairying when other lines of farming are depressed. Novices in dairy farming are handicapped in competing against experienced dairymen, Hill said, "but the dairy show is the place where the farmer who means to become a real dairymen can learn the modern things about all lines of the business."

The prohibition question is exemplified by rival booths at the show, one maintained by the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the other by the Missouri Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform. The Pabst company has a duplicate of an old fashioned bar, brass rail, sawdust, everything except alcoholic drinks.

243 OF MAFIA PUT ON TRIAL

By the Associated Press.

PALERMO, Sicily, Oct. 13.—Two hundred and forty-three men, described as the only remaining members of the Mafia Society, were on trial today for terrorism in many forms.

More than 200 witnesses were summoned. The charges include extortion, murder, blackmail, arson, assault and robbery. The trial is expected to last a month.

DeCourcy resided at 5212 Raymond avenue, with his mother, Mrs. Katherine DeCourcy, and his brother-in-law, sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Casey. He was a radio operator in the Signal Corps during the war and a member of the Quentin Roosevelt Post of the American Legion.

DeCourcy was found tied to the river bank yesterday by a search party at Cedar Bluff, two miles above Moerschede. DeCourcy's clothing was on the bank nearby. His friends thought he went in for a swim, heated by four and a half miles of upstream paddling, became seized with cramps and was drowned.

DeCourcy went to the clubhouse alone Saturday morning to await the arrival of the owner, J. H. McKinley, 2518 Semple avenue, a fellow-low-employee. J. W. McDonald, manager of the St. Louis office of the Studebaker company, and Paul K. French, an insurance agent, were also to join them.

McKinley, on arriving found a note from DeCourcy saying he had gone for a canoe and would return in time to listen to the broadcast of the world series game. When he failed to arrive, McKinley and the others decided he had met other friends at Valley Park, where he formerly had a clubhouse. They knew also he was to telephone a young woman for an engagement that evening and supposed he had joined her also at Valley Park.

Sunday afternoon in a locker in the clubhouse, they found clothing DeCourcy had worn from the city, which he had changed for his swimming suit, and for the shirt and golf knickers found later on the river bank. His wallet and watch were in the locker.

Becoming alarmed, they went to Valley Park, where they found his car at the boathouse and learned that he had rented a canoe. They notified police and began a search of the river. Yesterday morning they learned that he had never called the young woman.

RENS FORGERY CASE IS PLACED IN JURY'S HANDS

Defense Excuses Legislators' Practice of Collecting Warrants Made Out to Fictitious Clerks.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12.—The jury trying Clifford C. Rens, State representative from the Second St. Louis District, for forgery, recovered the case tonight and is still deliberating it today.

The jury was called into court this afternoon and reported to the judge it was divided, 10 to 2, without indicating which way, and indicated there was no hope of an agreement. The court ordered deliberations resumed and a report made to the court again before adjournment at 5 p. m.

Rens is charged with forging an indorsement on a House clerical payroll warrant at the 1931 session of the Legislature.

The charge against Rens is based on a complaint by Lawrence Huegel Jr., 19-year-old high school student of Jefferson City, that Rens had placed him on the House clerical payroll as Rens' personal clerk, without Huegel's consent, after proposing to pay him "a couple of dollars a month for cigarette money for use of his name," and that Rens had indorsed Huegel's name on a payroll warrant for $12.50 without Huegel's knowledge or consent.

Publicity Blamed for Case.
In closing arguments to the jury last night defense attorneys criticized newspaper reporters for an investigation which resulted in uncovering some of the evidence in the case. State Representative James T. Blair Jr. of Jefferson City, one of Rens' attorneys, declared "there never would have been any trouble about this case if there had not been so much publicity about it."

The $5 a day salary of the Legislators was pleaded as a defense for the practice of Legislators in appointing extra clerks to the payroll and cashing the clerical warrants for their own use. H. P. Lauff of Jefferson City, one of counsel for Rens, said that from "time immemorial" the Legislature had allowed its members extra clerkships. Lauff referred to the newspaper reporters as "the bloodhounds of the press." He said the State had failed to prove the charge of forgery and that Rens had believed he had authority to cash the warrant in the case.

Defense attorneys also stressed the fact that the first degree forgery charge against Rens carried a minimum penitentiary sentence of 10 years, upon conviction, with a possible maximum of life imprisonment, and pleaded with the jury not to subject the defendant to such a sentence, when "he may have acted a little indiscreetly."

Prosecutor Assails Graft.
Prosecuting Attorney Nils Sevier, in his argument to the jury, defended the newspapers and said their sole purpose in investigations such as in the Rens case "was to see that public officials, or any one else, did not cheat."

"This defendant, with nine and a half years' experience as a lawyer, tried to cover up a violation of his oath of office by using a school boy in his scheme," Sevier said. "And he persuaded another innocent school boy to lie under oath in his effort to cover up. It is the duty of this jury, by its verdict, to say to the Legislature that we are going to stop this grafting, that State officers are to be kept honest and receive only the pay that the law allows them."

"This kind of business strikes at the very root of our Government. The Legislature fixed the penalty for the offense involved here and it is no defense to plead the penalty is excessive. When any officer of the State, be he a legislator or holder of any other post of honor, betrays his trust to the extent that he forges the name of a school boy to a warrant to defraud the State, even life imprisonment is not too much."

Huegel's Testimony.
Huegel testified that early last January, soon after the Legislature convened, Russell Rinklin of Jefferson City, a former schoolmate, had approached him with a proposal that he permit the use of his name by some legislator on the House payroll, for $5 a month, and that he agreed. He said Rinklin did not name the legislator who was to use his name.

Huegel said later he learned his name was on the payroll and that a warrant for $12.50, issued in his name, had been cashed by Rens. He said he met Rens a few days later and that Rens told Huegel he was on the roll as Rens' personal clerk. Huegel said Rens told him he would pay Huegel "a couple of dollars a month for cigarette money" for the use of his name. Huegel testified he did not consent to this use of his name by Rens and had not consented to indorsement of his name on the $12.50 warrants. Rens, Huegel and Rinklin all were members of the same high school fraternity. Huegel testified on cross-examination that he was expelled from the fraternity by the local chapter for having made the complaint against Rens. Defense attorneys asked him if he had been expelled because he was "drunk at several fraternity parties." Huegel replied he "was not any more drunk than anyone else" at the party.

The State scored against Rens

when Sevier succeeded in getting to the jury, over vigorous defense objections, the story of how Rens attempted to head off an investigation by Sevier, by producing a "ringer" for Huegel, who said he was Rens' clerk and had received the proceeds of the warrant indorsed by Rens.

When Sevier was investigating the case last February, Rens said the Lawrence Huegel Jr. of Jefferson City was not the Lawrence Huegel he had appointed as clerk. He produced before Sevier a youth who said he was Lawrence Huegel Jr. of St. Louis, and who made an affidavit that he was Rens' clerk and had received the pay.

Further investigation disclosed this "Huegel" actually was George W. Itner Jr. of 1222 Simpson place, St. Louis, a University of Missouri student and a member of the fraternity to which Rens belongs. After his identity had been traced, Itner signed an affidavit, repudiating the sworn statement he made before Sevier when he impersonated Huegel.

Itner testified yesterday that he entered into the deception at Rens' request and upon Rens' assurance there would be no trouble. He said Rens prepared a pocket identification card, a receipt for a bill, and other papers tending to show his name was Lawrence Huegel, and had pasted the initials "L. H." in his hat to aid in the deception. He was presented to Sevier by Rens as the "real" Lawrence Huegel. Itner said Rens had coached him on the story he was to tell Sevier. He said he had entered into the role for the sole purpose of helping Rens out of trouble.

Defense Testimony.

The defense offered several character witnesses for Rens, including two St. Louis policemen, Capt. Patrick Kirk of the Southern District and Sergeant Frank Dietz. Dietz provoked a round of laughter in the courtroom when, in reply to a question by Sevier as to whether he had worked with Rens in politics, Dietz said: "The Police Department of St. Louis is not in politics." Rens is a Republican.

Rinklin testified that when he talked to Huegel about the use of the latter's name on the payroll, he told Huegel the name was to be used by Rens. Rinklin previously had made an affidavit that Rens had offered him $4 a month for the use of his name on the House payroll, but that he had obtained another legislative clerical job and passed the offer along to Huegel. Rens testified briefly that Rinklin had told him Huegel had agreed to the use of his name on the payroll, and that he thought he had Huegel's authority for use of the name without discussing the matter with Huegel. He said he understood he was to pay Huegel $5 a month for the use of his name. With the belief he was authorized to use the name, Rens said he had called for the warrant made out to Huegel, signed Huegel's name and his own as indorsements, and cashed the warrant at the State Treasurer's office. Rens was not cross-examined.

Judge Stillwell overruled a defense demurrer in which it was contended the State had failed to introduce evidence proving the elements of the forgery charge.

Get the Biggest Allowance for Your Present Car on a New HUDSON 8 or ESSEX Super-Six TODAY

GET A NEW CAR AND BE READY FOR WINTER

You'll Never Get Back the Money You Spend Fixing up your Present Car. It's worth more NOW!

Add up what you will have to spend for new tires, battery work, valve grinding, motor overhauling and the many other repairs you will have to make to your present car to put it in shape for winter driving. Then take a good look at the big allowances we are making during our Fall Appraisal Campaign. Let that be your most convincing proof that NOW—right today—is the time to trade in your present car on a new Hudson Eight or Essex Super-Six that you know will serve you unfailingly and economically this winter and for winters to come.

Your present car is worth more right now, even in its present shape than it ever will be again. Next spring, even with the money you put into it this Fall, it will be worth perhaps several hundred dollars less than today. Even a week will lower its value. So, again we repeat—NOW is the time to TRADE!

The list at the left shows an example of the generous allowances we are making. But your car, regardless of make or model you own, will also command a high allowance. We just haven't room to list them all here. Come in to-day and let us appraise your car. Let us show you how easily you can get a 1931 model right off the showroom floor at a big saving. This offer includes the New De Luxe body styles, just introduced this Fall, as well as standard models. And at slight additional cost you can have Selective Free Wheeling and the Hudson-Essex "Startix" which automatically starts your motor and restarts it anytime, anywhere should it stall for any reason.

Don't put it off. This offer is limited. Naturally, we can not continue to make allowances like these very long. You may be too late if you delay. Don't let another day go by without seeing these great cars and learning how inexpensive it is to have reliable transportation this winter.

Generous Allowances on All Makes

During 1931 there has been such a steadily increasing demand for previous Hudson and Essex models—and the cost of reconditioning such cars has been so low due to their rugged construction and built-in long life—that these models are now bringing higher prices. Consequently, these factors and our big Fall Appraisal Campaign permit us to give extraordinary, liberal trade-in allowances. For example—

HUDSON

1928—We are allowing as high as $4100 on some models of the 1928 series.

1929—Now in big demand. Our trade-in price as high as $600 on some body types.

1930—Some cars in the 1930 series are being taken in as high as $710.

ESSEX

1928—On many cars we are giving as high as $300 on trade-in.

1929—Our price is as high as $400 allowance on a new Hudson or Essex.

1930—Trade-in allowance as high as $325 on some body types.

BANKER'S SON KILLS HIMSELF IN PITTSBURGH

Note Asking for Forgiveness Found With Body of William Callery.

By the Associated Press.
PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 13.—William Callery, 45 years old, son of J. Dawson Callery, president of the Diamond National Bank here, was found shot to death in his home at Shields, a suburb today.

His father, formerly was president and chairman of the board of the Pittsburgh Street Railway Company. His widow, formerly was Irene A. Daly of Baltimore, Md. The coroner's office reported that Callery had shot himself in the chest. Relatives said he had been ill. The body was found by his wife in a reading room at 4:30 a. m., and a shotgun with a string tied to the trigger lay nearby. Coroner's officials said a note addressed to Mrs. Callery also was found. It was not signed. Mrs. Callery was asked to forgive her husband "for something you always detested, but which under the circumstances, I found to be almost the only thing left."

The note ended with, "My only regret in leaving is the way I always abused your faith and confidence in me," and "good-night, dearest."

Callery was a member of several exclusive clubs.

Three Men Get Firm's Cash at 6116 Easton—Other Robberies Reported.

The Victor Drug Co., 6116 Easton avenue, was robbed of $700 last night by two armed men who held up Mrs. Kathryn Brown, in charge of the store. Two customers and the soda clerk, John Arley, were in the store at the time, but were ordered to keep quiet. The robbers made their escape with a third man who had acted as lookout outside the store.

Sidney Gerstein, a confectioner of 5108 Easton avenue, reported to police yesterday afternoon that he had been held up by two men who boarded his truck at Ogden and Derby avenues, Wellston, and forced him to drive to a nearby alley, where they took $350. Gerstein said the men warned him to remain in the alley for five minutes while they made their escape.

Abe Rockman, a grocer, at 1719 Gratiot street, was held up in his store last night by two Negroes, one with a revolver, who took $2.

A watch and $38 were taken from Will Manuel, proprietor of a barbecue stand at 712 North Compton avenue, by an armed Negro who held him up last night.

Delmar boulevard, early today. Firemen reported finding oil-soaked paper in a bureau drawer and a lighted candle nearby in a first-floor room. The fire, starting on the second floor from undetermined causes, was discovered by neighbors at 2:30 a. m. Mrs. May Allender, the proprietor, closed the place last week when she went to a hospital, police learned.

Fire discovered at 1 a. m. today caused $1000 damage at the drug store of E. A. Gold, 519 North Sa-arh street. The cause was not determined.

Melville E. Stone Bust Presented. By the Associated Press.
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Oct. 12.—A bronze bust of Melville E. Stone, late general manager of the Associated Press, presented by directors of the organization, was placed yesterday in the lobby of the University of Illinois auditorium, where the editors of the Hall of Fame have been housed temporarily. The bust is the work of Sculptor Francis Savage.

TELLS OF MONEY OFFER TO KOPLAR IN MOVIE SUIT

Attorney for Warner Bros. Says He Was Willing to Pay St. Louis Theater Man $200 a Week.

Harry Koplar, former associate of the Skouras brothers in the ownership and management of the neighborhood movie chain of the St. Louis Amusement Co., turned down an opportunity to get $200 a week for a year from Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., which was ready to pay to stop litigation, it was brought out in a receivership hearing yesterday.

Koplar is backing receivership suits against St. Louis Amusement and Skouras Bros. Enterprises. The latter company owns a half interest in the Missouri, Ambassador and Grand Central Theaters.

Warner Bros., big movie producers and exhibitors, own most of the stock of both concerns, and Koplar is a minority stockholder. Abel Cary Thomas of New York, general counsel and secretary of Warner Bros., and the two St. Louis subsidiaries, was cross-examined by Koplar's lawyer, Lambert E. Walther, before Circuit Judge Hogan in the St. Louis Amusement case yesterday, about his previous testimony that Koplar had sought employment by Warner Bros. last February "to save trouble" for them. Thomas explained that he had twitted Koplar last July, when the case began, about a supposed failure to produce proof a receiver should be appointed.

Few Thousand Offered.
"I asked him," Thomas related, "why he wanted to keep up the attack, and offered to give him a few thousand dollars. I didn't want to spend more time on the case, but wanted to settle it. I had in mind offering him $200 a week for a year; not any more, because he was not worth any more to us, and not all at once because I thought if trouble should arise we could stop his salary at any time. If I named any figure to him, however, it was probably $100 a week, thinking he would come up. He said he was going to get many thousands, and that he had a lot of people to take care of."

"I told Koplar, 'we won't pay you any more per share for your stock than we have offered other stockholders, but what we'll do is hire you for a few thousands.' I didn't say, 'This is a kind of blackmail to keep you quiet,' although that is what it was; there was nothing he could do for us. I said, 'To keep you in order and make you behave we'll give you a few thousands.'"

Walther asked: "You didn't actually intend to employ him?" Thomas replied: "No. I wouldn't give him $200 for his life."

"Did you increase your offer to him to $25,000?" "Never."

In the cross-examination, Walther asked the Court to dissolve the present board of directors of St. Louis Amusement, which consists of seven New York Warner officials and Sam B. Jeffries, assistant secretary and local counsel.

It was expected that testimony in the St. Louis Amusement case would be finished today and hearing of the Skouras Bros. Enterprises receivership begun in July, would be resumed immediately.

Thomas previously had testified that Koplar had recommended to Warner Bros. the employment of Spyros Skouras. Warners, developing a chain of theaters, wanted a good showman to manage them and after considering various men, Thomas said, chose Skouras after buying out the Skouras theaters here. Later, Thomas went on, Harry Warner, president of Warner Bros., "felt Skouras had taken his personal friends and old retainers and given them more money than they were entitled to. There were arguments over this. Some of these men made good and some didn't."

Wanted $100,000 a Year.
"Prior to Christmas, 1929, Skouras asked for $100,000 a year salary for three years. This was agreed on and a contract was drawn up but not signed by either party, when a disagreement arose between Warner and Skouras, which made it fairly obvious to everybody that the continued association of Skouras would not be agreeable or profitable."

"The corporation had lent Skouras large sums. It was urged by Jeffries in Skouras' behalf and by Skouras himself that the contract for salary was in existence, because the president had been directed to sign it. Skouras claimed he was entitled to $100,000 a year for three years, and anyway he was entitled to $20,000 a year for three years under an old contract. We pointed to the fact that he already had the money that had been lent and was pretty well without resources with which to repay us. A settlement was decided upon and the amount left to me because I was and am attached to Skouras."

The settlement was for $150,000. It had been shown when the hearing began in July, but Skouras received only $15,801 of this in cash, the rest applied against what he owed Warner Bros.

Best Remedy is Made At Home

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbe Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair and makes it soft and glossy. Barbe will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

ENDS FIGHT ON PULLMAN FARES

Travelers' Organization Had Objected to Surcharges.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—The United Commercial Travelers have given up their fight on Pullman surcharges. The Interstate Commerce Commission today dismissed the complaint of the organization against surcharges on Pullman sleeping car tickets and discontinued its investigation.

The order said the organization had notified the commission on Aug. 5 that it was no longer interested in the proceeding and was willing to have the complaint dismissed.

Announcing CLIMATIC CONTROL*

A SCIENTIFIC ACHIEVEMENT! GASOLINE THAT GIVES YOU THE HIGHEST LEVEL OF PERFORM-ANCE WHEREVER AND WHENEVER YOU DRIVE

YOU HAVE noticed how your car's performance varies with driving conditions. Heat and cold, sun and rain, dryness and damp, high altitude and low—all these make a difference. The reason is that all gasoline is extremely sensitive. It is affected by changes in "engine heat" caused by these climatic variations. • At last something has been done about it. The makers of Mobilgas have developed Climatic-Control. By this scientific achievement, Mobilgas automatically adapts itself to every variation in "engine heat," giving you the highest usable level of performance wherever and whenever you drive. All without increase in price! Fill your tank today and let your car decide.

AT LUBRITE STATIONS

*CLIMATIC-CONTROL is the pre-adjustment of the specifications of Mobilgas so that it automatically adapts itself to the variations in "engine heat," even as high as 400° F., caused by changes in temperature, altitude, humidity and road "pull." In the Mobilgas Research Laboratories all these changing climatic conditions have been "manufactured" in hot and cold testing-chambers. Here engine tests are conducted day after day. The road performance of Mobilgas is thus scientifically verified at different "engine heats," and its specifications are pre-adjusted before it is placed on sale in your locality.

HOT ROOM TESTS—In this specially constructed chamber, electric heating units, controlled by thermostats, duplicate the summer temperatures of your locality. Tests are made at as high as 150 degrees F., hotter than the hottest day you have ever known. Here the "hot weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control in Mobilgas is scientifically verified.

COLD ROOM TESTS—By turning off the heat units and turning on refrigerating apparatus, the engineers reproduce driving temperatures as low as 20 degrees below zero. This verifies scientifically the "cold weather" pre-adjustment for Climatic-Control.

"ENGINE HEAT" READINGS—On this control panel, equipped with the most delicate instruments, the exact performance of Mobilgas, under the different "engine heats" produced by the hot and cold room tests, is measured and recorded. With this exact knowledge, the specifications of Mobilgas are then pre-adjusted to provide it with the element of Climatic-Control.

FUMIGATING CONCERNS SEEK WAY TO PREVENT FATALITIES

Use of Tear Gas With Poisonous Fumes Is One Suggestion Made at Meeting.

Members of companies engaged in fumigating residences met today in the office of Building Commissioner Angerer to discuss methods of preventing fatalities due to fumigating gas.

One of the suggestions advanced was the use of a mixture of cyanide gas and tear gas, with the presence of the tear gas warning anyone of the other gas, which is poisonous. An agent for a New York firm manufacturing such a product arranged to give a demonstration of the gas Friday morning.

Another suggestion was that all fumigating be done in the forenoon, so that a house might air out by evening.

Eight deaths due to fumigating gas have occurred in St. Louis in the last two years, the most recent being the death of Charles Scheppe, his wife and 4-year-old daughter, whose bodies were found in their flat at 4808 A. Moffitt avenue last week. An ordinance providing for stricter regulation of fumigating gas is pending in the Board of Aldermen.

California National Association. Buckner, in making the list of directors public last night, said articles of incorporation for the organization would be filed at Dover, Del., tomorrow.

"Immediately following the organization on Saturday," Buckner said, "the associations in the different districts can be organized and funds made available whereby subscribing banks may obtain the benefit of the facilities afforded by the corporation."

"The funds of the corporation are to be available for the assistance of banks in any part of the country," he explained. "The amount of money subscribed by the banks in each of the groups or associations will not limit the amount which banks in that particular local association may borrow, under the rules the separate associations will establish, from the National Credit Corporation."

"The plan will assure that banks in any part of the country with sound assets may obtain such cash when necessary."

TO SEEK $10,000 OF U. S. FOR 'WINE ELECTROCUTION'

Wisconsin Congressman Will See Award for Child of Woman Victim.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Congress will be asked to award $10,000 to the child of the late Mrs. Helen Vasilovic, who was electrocuted in a pool of wine poured on her cellar floor by dry agents.

Representative Schafer, Wisconsin, anti-prohibitionist, has announced he will introduce a bill December calling for the outlay of the basis of a letter received from prohibition Director Woodcock.

The letter said Mrs. Vasilovic was electrocuted by coming in contact with an electric socket at wire in the basement, but that she was "probable that the presence of wine on the floor and possibly some of it on the wire had something to do" with the electrocution.

"I think that there is legitimate criticism of the agents' judgment."

CHURCH GOING ROBBER HELD UNDER HENRY LAW

Ten-Year Minimum on Conviction of Shooting Grocer in Holdup.

A contrite, tearful young man arrested for the first time in his life as he came out of church last Sunday, is held at the Wyoming Street Police Station, following the issuance of warrants charging him with an offense carrying a minimum penalty of 10 years in prison and a maximum of death.

He is Thomas Hamilton Greenwood Jr., 23-year-old salesman who shot and seriously wounded the manager of a Kroger store in a holdup last Friday. Previously he committed five other robberies, he has confessed.

Three warrants charging robbery with a deadly weapon under the Henry Law, were issued by the Circuit Attorney's office today. The other two robberies which he has confessed may be presented to the Warrant Office later. So far, the maximum penalty provided under the Henry Law has not been invoked, but several robbers have been sentenced to life imprisonment under it.

A warrant charging assault with intent to rob also was issued pending the outcome of the store manager's injuries.

Greenwood, who lived with his parents at 1128 Pestalozzi street, complained yesterday that his neck ached from sleeping on the boards in his cell. His mother brought a pillow and blanket to the station and Police Capt. Agee let the young man have them. He also permitted the prisoner to receive a cake that his grandmother had baked especially for him and a basket of food that his mother had prepared.

Yesterday afternoon young Greenwood had a long talk with the Rev. Jacob C. Kammerer, pastor of the Olive Branch Congregational Church, 2201 Sidney street.
 It was in front of this church that he was arrested Sunday after two alert policemen had noticed that his automobile with a Pennsylvania license, parked there, resembled the one used in several recent robberies.

"He told the pastor," Capt. Agee said later, "that his life was ruined, that he had nothing further to live for. He has been so disconsolate that we have been watching him closely. Of course, he should have thought about this phase of it before he became a holdup man."

Greenwood told the Captain that his mother questioned him closely after the shooting last Friday.
 "She read in the papers," he said,
 "that the fellow who shot that grocer drove a maroon Chevrolet with Pennsylvania license plates. Well, that was what I had. She saw also that the holdup man had dropped a hat bearing the initials T. H. G.
 Jr. I had an awful time convincing her I didn't know anything about it."

The wounded man, Horace L.
 Ettinger, manager of a store at 2929 Park avenue, still is in a serious condition, physicians at City Hospital said today. He was shot just below the left eye and the bullet, from the robber's .22-caliber automatic pistol, lodged in the muscular tissue at the back of his neck.

 dist denomination in a superan-nuate relation. He and Mrs. Johnson will reside at 218 East Washington avenue, Kirkwood. His successor at Immanuel Church is the Rev. R. L. Le Grand.

The Rev. Dr. Johnson, who was born in England, has been a minister in the United States for 39 years, his first pastorate being at Marceline, Mo. He was at Immanuel Church for three years, after holding several other pastorates in the city.

BOGUS $20 BILLS PASSED

Four of Them Given to Merchants for Purchases.
 Police and Federal officers are searching for a man who has been passing counterfeit $20 bills here.
 The man, described as a foreign-born about 45 years old, attempted to pass a bill at the store of Louis Goldstein, 4503 Easton avenue, yesterday. Goldstein became suspicious and the man departed, leaving the bill, which Federal officers describe as a good imitation of a gold certificate. A canvass of the neighborhood revealed that a man of that description had made purchases with similar bills at four stores recently.

KILLED IN FOOTBALL BRAWL

Detroit Man Hit on Head With Bottle in Quarrel Over Teams.
 By the Associated Press.
 CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Earl Healy, 32 years old, Detroit broker, died in a hospital last night of a blow on the head suffered in a cafe Saturday night. He engaged in a discussion of the relative merits of the Northwestern and Notre Dame football teams, a quarrel arose and another diner hit him on the head with a bottle.
 His assailant is being sought.

Settlement of Estate Claim.
 The claim of Mrs. Gladys-Kris-man against the estate of her aunt, Mrs. Cora Well, 4142 Delmar boulevard, for services as her business adviser and companion, was compromised in Circuit Judge Rutledge's court today. The estate agreed to pay $11,000.

WEALTHIEST CAT'S ESTATE BRINGS $8000 AT AUCTION

Mitzel's Home Leased; Sale Draws Large Crowd of Bidders and Curious.
 By the Associated Press.
 LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 13.—
 Public sale of the household effects of a deceased cat—the world's wealthiest—drew a crowd yesterday to the premises of the late Mitzel, blue Angora legatee of Dr.
 Maud Cain, who died last October, leaving the feline a pretentious home, $10,000 in furnishings and a fund of $15,000.
 The auction in suburban San Gabriel was to clear up the estate of the 18-year-old cat, which died last April of a heart ailment. The crowd at the sale was larger than many of those which have attended auctions at homes of several notion picture personages. Auctioneer

 C. H. O'Connor said that more than $8000 was realized from the sale.
 The house has been leased.

Many in the throng came to see how a wealthy cat's residence would look. They were especially interested in the Angora's private boudoir, and the elaborate runway constructed so that the cat could enter and leave the house at will without recourse to the usual openings.

Dr. Cain left the cat and its estate under care of Mrs. Pauline through the winter. Check them at the first

By a fortunate accident, it was found that the vapor of the ingredients now in Vapex almost immediately Vapex became the "modern way" to treat a cold. Now mil-

Especially for children's pillow at night—that's the easy Vapex way of relieving colds. It's economical too. The

OVER ACTIVE VOLCANOPriest Says Fumes From Crater Affected Engine of Machine.By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—A story of a perilous airplane journey over the Aniakchak volcano in the center of the Alaskan Peninsula during its eruption last May was told yesterday by the Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, Jesuit priest and head of the geology department of the University of Santa Clara, Cal. He arrived here from an Alaskan expedition."The only way we escaped what appeared to be certain death," he said, "was by the pilot taking a power dive and shooting downward slantwise outside the danger zone."
"As we flew past Aniakchak crater, which was sending up clouds of smoking gases, we could see only the base of the mountain. We began to notice very strong gas fumes when we were 40 miles away."As we flew 2000 feet above the highest point of the rim, the fumes from the crater began to affect the engine. The plane refused to climb and began to lose air speed."Our ship turned tail on us and was sucked toward the erupting area by the rush of cold air toward the volcano's vents."Henry Blunt, the pilot, and Al Monsen dived straight downward and, with the speed thus gained, righted the ship and shot away from the crater. We came to a landing on Meshik Lake, fifteen miles from the rim."Father Hubbard said that the Aniakchak disturbance was the greatest eruption of modern times.
The volcano is the largest active crater in the world, he said. During the May eruption, ashes were found on Bristol Bay, 200 miles away.ONE-THIRD MORE DRY AGENTS MAKE THIRD MORE ARRESTSSeizures by U. S. Forces Show Increase for Second Consecutive Month.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—For the second consecutive month, prohibition arrests show an increase.
With one-third more agents than in the corresponding month last year, Commissioner Woodcock's forces netted during August and September one-third more cases.
The September total of cases, 6658, was lower than the August figure,
but the same was true a year ago, showing an unexplained seasonal decline.At the end of September there were 28,326 cases unfinished on court dockets, with 1796 convictions, 278 acquittals and many more cases in preparation for trial.
In addition to the cases reported, 1561 were made for prosecution in state courts.Penalties dealt out in convictions averaged 225.2 days and a $161.59 fine for each defendant.
During the period 915 automobiles and two boats were seized. Still decommissioned totaled 1841, while beer fermenters destroyed or seized totaled 1471. Nearly 400,000 gallons of spirits, beer and wine were seized.CHARLES DEAN EATON DIES.*RETIRED INSURANCE MANAGERBorn Here and Once Played on

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Hag-parks, in a report to Secretary of Interior Wilbur, says 2,152,848 persons went to the national parks last summer compared to 2,774,581 last year, a gain of 14 per cent. Travel to national monuments fell off about 80,000. Albright attributes this to the fact that most of the monuments are in the Southwest, where summer is unusually hot.

Walter F. Crane Funeral.
Funeral services for Walter F. Crane, formerly of St. Louis, who died Saturday at his home in Cedar Rapids, Ia., were held today at the Lupton undertaking parlors, 4449 Olive street, with burial in Bellefontaine cemetery. Mr. Crane was born 44 years ago in a dwelling on the site later occupied by the Olympic Theater. He was employed nearly 50 years by the Stuggs-Vandervoort-Barney Dry Goods Co., removing to Cedar Rapids seven years ago.

"MY NERVES!
MY NERVES!"

"I'm Suffering from Acidity!"*

So restless you can't be still a moment! Even though you sit or lie down something seems to be churning within you. You can't work—you can't eat—you can't sleep. You're "all in," yet you want to be on the go. That's one of the phases of an acid condition, because acidity irritates and wrecks the nerves.

Starting with acid-stomach, indigestion, gas excess and acid and bitter, acidity also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the gastro-intestinal canal. This breeds poisons which are absorbed by the system and which sap strength and vitality, wreck your nerves and make you feel run-down, restless and depressed.

Acidity today is treated by an amazing, harmless white tablet developed in Germany by the world's foremost pharmaceutical house. Magnesia Oxidiz is the name. Magnesia Oxidiz, upon contact with the gastric juice, generates nascent or active oxygen. The active oxygen does the three things necessary to help correct acidity. This preparation neutralizes excess acid, checks fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines and stimulates the natural movement of the bowels. All the misery and distress are relieved and a new sense of vigor and well-being is restored.

Make This Acidity Test

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxidiz from Walgreen Drug Stores or any other good drugstore. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel, how much more soundly you sleep, how much more energy you have. If, after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the drugstore and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

POLICE CHECK CLEWS TO UNGER MURDER

Examine Bed Clothing Found Near Meramec — Third Man Arrested.

A blood-soaked mattress, pillow and blanket, partly burned, were found in a thicket near the Meramec River clubhouse district at Valley Park yesterday afternoon, by Deputy Sheriffs of St. Louis County who visited the clubhouses for clues in the murder of Edward Unger, formerly of 2726A Chippewa street, whose body was found near Fenton last Saturday.

Apparently rain had extinguished the fire. The officers plan to compare the material of the blanket with shreds of wool found on bushes near the place where the body of Unger was found. The body, unclothed except for a pair of socks, was lying at the side of the road. Death, according to the coroner's verdict, was due to two stab wounds of the chest, although the throat had been slashed and a shot fired through the head.

Two men held in the case in St. Louis were freed last night and a third man was arrested. The two released were former associates of Unger, who had been implicated with him in a drug store burglary in the neighborhood of his former home. They denied any knowledge of how Unger met his death.

The third man, a chauffeur, was held after police had been informed that Unger went to a Meramec River clubhouse last Saturday morning in an automobile with another man. The chauffeur denied taking Unger to the clubhouse or even knowing him. Unger, who was 20 years old, was a former truckman's helper. He had been sought by police for the last month for questioning about the drug store burglary.

FUNERAL OF DR. T. J. RILEY

Former Washington U. Professor Buried in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The funeral of Dr. Thomas J. Riley, general secretary of the Brooklyn Board of Charities since 1912, was held today in Flatbush Congregational Church.

Dr. Riley, who died Saturday at the age of 61, was professor of sociology in Washington University, St. Louis, from 1909 to 1912, and in the same period was president of the St. Louis board of commissioners of charitable institutions, president of the Missouri Conference of Charities and Corrections, and secretary of the board of examiners for probation officers of the St. Louis Juvenile Court.

CALENDAR REFORM MEETING

Several Nations, Including U. S., Represented at Geneva Parley.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—Representatives of several nations here yesterday began consideration of proposals for calendar reform which would fix the date of Easter and other movable feasts. The United States is represented by Charles F. Marvin and the American National Committee on Calendar Reform by Col. O. N. Solbert. Augusto Vasconcelos of Portugal is president of the conference.

Mexico City Publisher Dies.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 13.—Pablo Langarica, Mexico City newspaper publisher, died Saturday at his residence here. Newspapers and the Mexican Consul did not learn of his death until last night. Langarica owned the newspaper La Prensa. He formerly was manager of El Excelsior, in Mexico City.

Vitally influencing the thoughts and lives of over 2,600,000 Modern Women. Read these typical letters—

"I felt heart-broken until."

"WE had expected to go on our first trip abroad this summer. Our plans were all made when my husband came home one night with the announcement that changes in his office would make it necessary for him to stay on the job all summer.

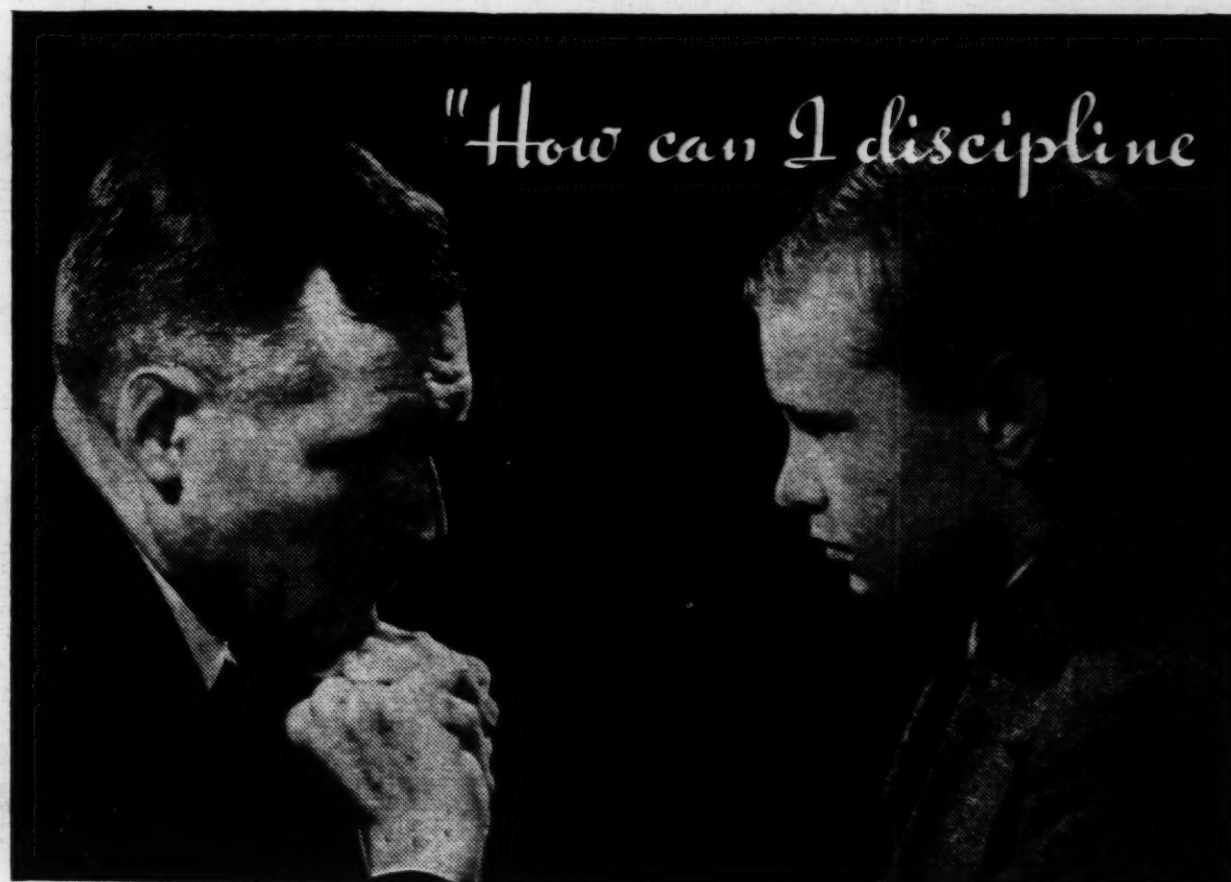

"I felt heartbroken at first. But an article I read not long ago in the Journal gave me a consoling idea. Our house had long been getting shabby—why not do it over from top to bottom? It would be one way of getting a change of scene!

"I have a scrapbook of all the articles on interior decoration the Journal has published in the last two years. It has given me the greatest possible help—in the matter of colors, materials, furniture, wall papers—everything.

"I have had such fun out of the summer! And our house is so lovely that I don't think I'll ever want to leave it now..."

THE FOREMOST DECORATORS in the country are contributing to the Journal every month the best modern thought on home furnishing and decoration; and through the Journal the woman on a Wyoming ranch or a Kansas farm is able to keep as closely in touch with all that is new and interesting in this field as her sister in the big cities.

"How can I discipline my 14 year old son.."

"WHEN I was a boy, my father used to take me out to the barn and give me a licking every time I deliberately disobeyed him, I still believe those lickings were good for me. I still think there is something wrong with the fellow who can't take a licking without bearing a grudge.

"But punishment doesn't seem to work with our boy the way it did with me. It seems to make him sullen and resentful.

"My wife showed me an article in a recent issue of the Journal about children hating their parents. I don't want my son to hate me, but I want to raise him right. I wish you would give me your advice on how to discipline my 14 year old son..."

DR. MENNINGER'S sympathetic, open-minded discussions on mental hygiene in the home are helping thousands of Journal-reading parents to deal more intelligently with their children.

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL

"My head is high once again"

"ICAN'T tell you what reading 'The Kitchen-Sink Complex,' in the September Journal, has done for me. It woke me up as surely as a cold shower does when one is sleepy.

"I'd been thinking of myself in terms of dirty dishes and scouring powders, all right... but now my head is high once again.

"The part of the article that meant the most to me was what you said about the significance and importance of the home maker and her job. Now I know I'm doing a fine thing in contributing to society a complete home.

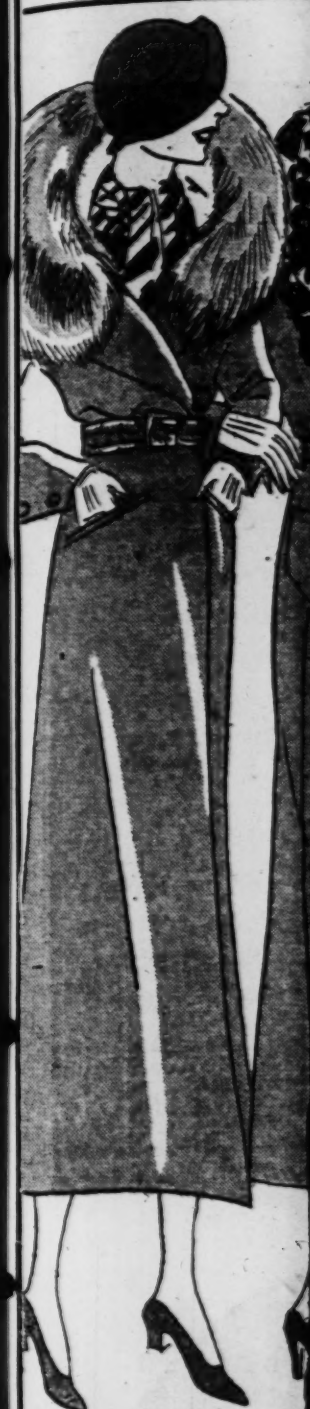

"I'm going to give up worrying about 'self-expression,' and wishing for foolish, impossible things. I'm going to do as you said—'lay out for myself tasks and pleasures that I know absolutely I can make come true.'... My husband and children will be grateful to you, too, for the change in me."

MRS. COOK, who wrote "The Kitchen-Sink Complex," is now conducting a monthly department on child training—Raising a Family.

EVIDENCE IN 1926 RAID AIDS SEABURY INQUIRY

Large Scale Gambling at Peter McGuinness Club Shown by Safe Contents.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The contents of an office safe, raided by police nearly five years ago, were produced before the legislative city investigations committee today as evidence of large scale gambling in the clubhouse of Peter J. McGuinness, Democratic leader and Deputy Commissioner of Public Works in Brooklyn.

McGuinness was the first of two witnesses to take the stand before the committee in connection with alleged gambling in political clubhouses of which they are the heads. He was followed by Deputy Sheriff Jacob Rosenberg, a Republican.

The Democratic leader had begun his testimony with a description of how indignant he was when to his surprise he discovered that there was betting going on in his clubhouse; not "professional gambling," he had hastened to protest, just betting.

Samuel Seabury, chief counsel for the committee produced a tabulation found in the McGuinness clubhouse safe, listing a number of mathematical calculations which police said referred to profits from gambling.

McGuinness was confronted with a notation which showed that between January, 1927 and March 11 of that year, the day before the police raid, a total of $114,109 was "played." Of that amount, $99,378 was "paid off" leaving a "profit" of $14,731.

"Don't you think this is an important piece of evidence found in a safe that bore your name?" asked Seabury.

"My club didn't get nothing, Judge, my club didn't get a penny, and I don't know who got it, Judge," McGuinness replied.

McGuinness was followed on the stand by Deputy Sheriff Rosenberg. Asked by Seabury if he knew that gambling had been going on in his club, he replied: "If you call it gambling it still goes on today."

"You mean you don't call it professional gambling?" "Nothing of the kind."

Newspapers say Federal Government investigators have "harshly" that the Tammany Hall office-holders have failed to file income tax returns, though their bank statements showed deposits of several hundred thousand dollars each.

The study of bank accounts by the Hofstadter Committee, which, at the instance of the Legislature, is hunting irregularities in New York City affairs, attracted the notice of George Z. Medale, Federal District Attorney. He has ordered an investigation of the income tax returns of four Democratic city officials whose large bank deposits, totaling about $1,000,000, were disclosed at hearings of the Hofstadter Committee.

MRS. HOOVER CHRISTENS PLANE COMMERCE GROUP AND MILK

Names "American Clipper" World's Largest Amphibian.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover yesterday gave the name American Clipper to the world's largest amphibian, a 17-ton craft.

Standing on a high platform at the edge of the Anacostia River, she crashed a bottle of sea water from the Caribbean over the prow of the ship. "I name thee the American Clipper," were her only words as the water from the sea, over which the ship will fly in regular service ran down the plane's sleek nose.

Organization Willing to Provide Arbiters "If Conditions Justify."

The Chamber of Commerce is willing to provide arbitrators in the milk strike "if and when the conditions justify," Walter B. Welschberger, president, yesterday informed several farm organizations that had asked the Chamber to take a hand in the controversy between the Pevely Dairy Co. and the Sanitary Milk Producers.

Welschberger wrote that the organization had found it more prudent to avoid entanglement in trade or labor disputes, and added, "Quite frankly, we do not think that our interest in agriculture can be measured in such an attitude."

McDONALD WARNS
BRITISH WORKERS AGAINST INFLATION

In Appeal to Audience Miners He Says National Problems Are Simple Ones of Housekeeping.

CHAOS UNLESS BOTH ENDS MEET

Declares He Always Will Loyal to Labor, but Will Not Be Slave to Party Caucus.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, DURHAM,
Oct. 12.—In one of the most eloquent appeals of his career, Ramsay MacDonald last night asked the Durham miners to send him back to the House of Commons as a common laborer to help build the dam against national world chaos.

"Who dares point the finger at me?" the Prime Minister demanded.

The Prime Minister made speech to his own constituents
whose Labor party organization has repudiated him, on his sixtieth birthday. He declared that he had him but he silenced them.

"You be quiet, my friend,"
told one of the interrupters.
"You'll be a wiser man."

"I wish people would say 'I listen to you instead of saying smooth things to keep their party with you,'" he declared another point in his speech.

The Prime Minister bared Britain's problems to his hearers, warning them especially of dangers of currency inflation, reduced the problems of national and international affairs to "the problems of housekeeping—arranging housekeeping."

Must Make Ends Meet.
"Unless you make ends meet,
you are going to chaos and destruction," he said.
MacDonald said things he had said before on a campaign trail.

Under the lash of criticism which he has been subjected to,
he formed the National Government, the Prime Minister, with quickness that roused bursts of plause, declared his loyalty to cause of labor. "I haven't changed
a single iota of my principles declared."

His birth dictated those principles, he said. They were in his bones and, "I shall be Labor to death."

"But I have a mind and I will not be a slave to the party caucus," MacDonald continued. "I have qualms of conscience for the I took forming the National Government. I should do it again and again."

Replying to those who criticized his early work for Labor party, the Prime Minister mentioned his wife, who had died many years ago.

"In those days we had to pay
the postage of the Labor party,"
he declared. "We bought our own pockets—my wife and I the very notepaper upon Labor's work was done."

"You borrowed our coal to sit upon at Labor meetings our home. Now you criticize men who exercised their willer and conscience in a time of national crisis."

The Prime Minister declared formation of the National Government proved to the whole the strength of Britain's racy in emergency, and he pleaded for another such administration Oct. 27 when the go to the polls.

He said the National Government must keep the budget balanced, must end borrowing, and the value of the pound finally, correct Britain's balance of trade.

"So far the behavior of the Government has the respect whole world. If such respect confidence goes, the result inflation."

He graphically described the miners might have work wages, but in reality have less than a few pounds present conditions.

Real Worth of Money.
"You don't eat pounds, you eat shillings," he said.
"Shillings are worth only a penny."

The national Government into being to perform a task in the world crisis.
Prime Minister said, and work is done its members arise.

This Government, he concluded, must pave the way for international conferences on war reparations, but he warned haste.

Recalling that the House of Commons—which he de-

Caucus.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 12.—In one of the most recent appeals of his career, Ramsay MacDonald last night
asked the Durham miners to send him back to the House of Commons as a common laborer to help build the dam against national and world chaos."Who dares point the finger of blame at me?" the Prime Minister demanded.
The Prime Minister made his speech to his own constituents,
whose Labor party organization
he repudiated him, on his sixty-fifth birthday. He declared that he would not be a slave to the party caucus."You be quiet, my friend," he told one of the interrupters.
"I will be a wiser man," he said. "I wish people would say hard things to you instead of saying smooth things to keep their popularity with you," he declared at another point in his speech.The Prime Minister bared Great Britain's problems to his hearers, warning them especially of the dangers of currency inflation. He reduced the problems of national and international affairs to "simple problems of housekeeping—Government housekeeping."Most Make Ends Meet.
"Unless you make ends meet
you are going to chaos and destruction," he said.
MacDonald said things he never said before on a campaign platform.Under the lash of criticism to "Mac" he has been subjected since
he formed the National Government. The Prime Minister, with eloquence that roused bursts of applause, declared his loyalty to the cause of labor. "I haven't changed
a single iota of my principles," he declared.His birth dictated those principles, he said. They were in his blood and, "I shall be Labor at my death.""But I have a mind and conscience of my own and I will not be a slave to the party caucus," MacDonald continued. "I had no conscience of conscience for the steps
I took forming the National Government. I should do it again, again and again."Replying to those who have criticized his early work for the Labor party, the Prime Minister declared his wife, who has been dead many years."In those days we had to pay for the postage of the Labor party,"
he declared. "We bought out of our own pockets—my wife and I—the very notepaper upon which Labor's work was done.""We borrowed our coal scuttles to sit upon at Labor meetings at our house. Now you criticize the pen and quill and the power and conscience in a time of national crisis."The Prime Minister declared the strength of the National Government proved to the whole world
the strength of Britain's democracy in emergency, and he appealed for another such demonstration Oct. 27 when the voters go to the polls.He said the National Government must keep the budget balanced and end borrowing, stabilizing the value of the pound and, finally, correct Britain's adverse balance of trade."So far the behavior of sterling has been admirable," he continued.
"There is no panic because the Government has the respect of the confidence of the world. The result will be inflation."He graphically described how the miners might have $100 a week wages, but in reality would have less than a few pounds under present conditions.
Real Worth of Money.
"You don't eat pounds, you don't wear pounds," he said. "Your salaries are worth only what you buy."The National Government came into being to perform a fundamental task in the world crisis, the Prime Minister said, and after its work is done its members will separate.
This Government, he continued,
must have the way for international conferences on war debts and reparations, but he warned against haste.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—A petition from 100,000 immigrants in Australia asking that they be returned to England because of their suffering is under advisement by the Government.As presented by the British Migrants' Association, the plea said the emigrants were induced to leave their homes by "mischievous, misleading and untruthful propaganda" on the part of Australian government agents and that they now were in a condition of "misery, semi-starvation and despair.""Suicides are lamentably frequent," the petition said. "Hundreds of young women are exposed to the gravest dangers and young men are herded together in interment camps under worse conditions than those to which criminals are subjected in His Majesty's jails."The government was also asked to compensate the petitioners for their losses.MISSOURI DELEGATION PAYS VISIT TO WHITE HOUSEDr. Clements Describes Political Situation to Hoover; Kansas City Group Greets President.By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—Reminders of the Republican national convention that nominated President Hoover were brought to him today at the White House by a good-will delegation from the Chamber of Commerce of Kansas City, where that convention was held.The political situation in Missouri was described to the President by Dr. E. B. Clements, Republican national committeeman from that State, who dined with him at the White House last night and conferred with him briefly this morning.The Kansas City delegation complimented Mr. Hoover particularly on his efforts for unemployment relief. The delegation was headed by Conrad H. Manna, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce, and also a member of the President's emergency relief organization. Others were Dr. J. D.
Brook, who ended today his 69th consecutive daily flight, which has carried him into every state of the Union and part of Canada. He was accompanied on part of this trip by Col. Ruby D. Garrett, who likewise was presented to the President.The entire delegation left Washington by airplane for Missouri this afternoon.An act of great courage—had been put through in a hurry because European nations were cracking down after the Paris peace conference. The Prime Minister said French opinion was not ready for it and before France decided to accept the beneficial effects had seriously ebbed.I want you to return me to the House of Commons to have the way to international conferences and to make them successful," he declared."Apostles to Coal Pits."
"Men and women of humble circumstances, you who have never been forced to deal with these great problems, I want you to go out as apostles to the coal pits, the street corners and home fireplaces to explain the situation."During part of his speech, which held his hearers hushed, Mr. Macdonald referred to his age. The village vicar in introducing him already had congratulated him on his birthday."My active life is not for long," the Prime Minister said. "I can see the end of my work." "I can see the end of my work," he said, and a young heckler suggested he should retire and let a younger man take his place, Macdonald fired back at him:"Perhaps you'd be willing to take over the job. In fact my youth is being renewed by my reception here. During the last few weeks
I have worked harder than ever, exhausted a half dozen assistants and am still going strong."The Prime Minister arrived at Seaham in a buoyant mood to begin his three-day campaign. On the way to Durham, from where he motored to Seaham, he said he didn't expect an enthusiastic reception, but would give the miners
"something to think about" in his outline of national problems.After they have digested his statements, he said, he believed there would be no doubt about the outcome of the election.Don't let the reputation

Report Some Packages Were Shipped Away by Legislator.By CURTIS A. BETTS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 12.—A report by Herman Lufcy, Commissioner of Permanent Seat of Government, to State Treasurer Brunk of an inventory of property belonging to the House of Representatives shows that equipment for which the State paid more than $2000 has disappeared. Lufcy reported that he was convinced by an inquiry among Capitol employees that much, if not all, of this equipment never was delivered to the Capitol.When the Legislature convened Jan. 6 Lufcy checked into the House of Representatives the property he had stored for it since the previous session, and when it adjourned in June he inventoried the equipment turned back to him for storage until the next session. He has checked each other and against the bills for equipment, which are part of the House records.Hall Trees Missing.
Sixty-six costumes, or hall trees, which were the property of the House appeared on both inventories, but Lufcy was unable to find even one of 30 hall trees for which the House paid at the last session. These were billed at $15 each, or a total of $450.The inventory showed that Lufcy checked in four desk lamps to the House in January, and the bills showed the House purchased $8 for a total of $32. Not one desk lamp was checked back to the Commissioner.One mirror was checked to the House, 18 were purchased for a total of $3.85, but not one was found during the recent inventory.All of the 150 "hideaway ash receivers," for which the State paid $25.50, are missing, Lufcy reported, and he has been unable to find any Capitol employee who ever saw one of them.Twenty pen and pencil desk sets, for which $257.75 was paid, have not been found, nor have any of the 123 pairs of office scissors, for which $237.30 was paid.Other articles paid for and which Lufcy has been unable to find, were 96 ink stands, costing $84.10; 150 wire desk baskets, one for each member of the House, costing $129.60; 48 waste paper baskets, costing $144, and 40 pencil sharpeners, costing $46.60.Lufcy's report is not complete.
Brunk's View of It."When I first looked over the accounts paid by the House," Brunk said, "I came to the opinion that the House paid for articles which were not even shipped.
Thirty costumes, or hall trees,
would make quite a sizeable bundle, and could not enter the Capitol without being noticed by employees of the Permanent Seat of Government Commission assigned to the receiving room in the basement. All of them report that they did not see such a shipment. The same is true of several other items.
We are checking one very suspicious account now, and have evidence, which is almost conclusive, that member of the Legislature cashed the warrant issued in payment for one lot of supplies.""We have information from Capitol employees that frequently during the Legislature packages were shipped by one legislator to a Kansas City store in which he has a financial interest. These for the most part were comparatively small packages and are supposed to have contained pencils, paper and stationery."

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., August, 1931.

IN 1921, President Hoover, who had just become Secretary of Commerce, issued a formal statement opposing resumption of American trade with Russia asserting that "so long as Russia is controlled by the Bolshevik the question of trade is far more political than economic.""There are no export commodities in Russia worth consideration," he continued, "except gold, platinum and jewelry in the hands of the Bolshevik government. The people are starving, cold and underclad. If they had any consumable commodities they would have consumed them long since."Later in the statement he said:
"Europe cannot recover its economic stability until Russia returns to production. Trading with this parcel of gold would not affect this remedy—nor would the goods obtained by the Bolshevik restore their production. That requires abandonment of their present economic system."During the 10 years which have elapsed since the issuance of the statement, Soviet Russia has made tremendous progress in production and despite lack of co-operation by their Government a few American business men have found a rich market there. American bankers, however, for their own purposes have refused to take Russian acceptances unless given discounts of 25 to 30 per cent. The result has been, according to Senator Borah and others, that only American concerns with strong capital reserves can do business with Russia.What Russia Would Like.
American sales to Russia, these officials say, would be greatly increased if the following five-point plan could be adopted:1. Substantial increase in the amounts and improvement in the terms of credit granted by American manufacturers on Soviet purchases.2. Creation of a financing organization to stimulate Soviet-American trade by means of extensions of loans and credits.3. Normal financing of American purchases by American banks.4. Conclusion of general agreements covering orders for a period of years.5. Elimination of all difficulties and creation of normal conditions respecting importation of Soviet products into the United States.Germany, England, Italy and Austria, say Russian officials, have established systems for giving normal credits to Russia. It is reported that France is now negotiating a credit scheme which will give her a share of the Russian purchases.The European credits, even the British, are through governmental or semi-governmental agencies.In Great Britain, the Government insures the British manufacturer up to 60 per cent of the purchases at a cost of 11 to 12 per cent. This insurance is issuedApartment house for workers in Moscow, typical of the architecture and showing the playground courtyard often provided in the communal dwelling built under the new regime in Russia.through the Exports Credits Guarantee Department by the Minister of Overseas Trade who is a member of the Board of Trade and the Foreign Office. At first British credits were only for six or nine months. Later they were extended to a year, and now they are granted for 18 months. The outside discounts on the Russian paper are as high as 25 per cent. Thus if a British manufacturer pays 11 or 12 per cent on 60 per cent of the order and discounts the remaining 40 per cent at 25 per cent, the total discount is a little over 20 per cent. The British do not require a down payment. American manufacturers must take a 25 to 30 per cent discount on acceptances if they cannot hold the Russian paper on their own. Americans have been known to demand a 50 per cent payment in cash with the order.Russian purchases in Germany are expected to reach $200,000,000 this year because of the generous long term credits given the Russians. In April this year the Germans established a credit fund of $50,000,000 marks, approximately $75,000,000, against Soviet purchases.Liberal German Terms.
The German-Russian agreement shows how far the German Government and manufacturers will go in their efforts to find jobs for German workmen. The agreement covers three classes of purchases.If he obtained an order for heavy commodities on June 1 for delivery
Aug. 1, he would receive on June 1 20 per cent in bills due Nov. 1, 1932, and on Aug. 1, 50 per cent in bills due Nov. 1, 1932, and 30 per cent in bills due May 1, 1934.Trade Sought by Italy.
Several Italian trade delegations were in Russia this summer making their own investigation of trade possibility. Fascist Italy and Soviet Russia are on such good terms that an Italian-Russian Commercial treaty, recently extended, gives Soviet Russia credits for managed in production of Canadian weekly newspapers.

CHILE CUTS NAVY
WITHOUT WAITING FOR ARMS PARLEY.Economic Pressure and Defeat in Recent Civil War Cause Order for One-Third Reduction.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 12.—Defeat in the recent civil war and financial stringency, instead of an arms treaty, have brought about a slash of one-third in the size of the Chilean navy, a short time ago one of the most powerful below the equator.Several thousand men and about 200 officers are being discharged.
The battle fleet has been taken from active service and ordered into yards. A destroyer scouting fleet one-half the former strength has been put into commission with reduced personnel and the budget for 1932 will be cut about 25,000,000 pesos ($3,000,000).Fear for many years ruled Chilean naval programs. The country lost to Peru once, and Chileans never forgot that fact.The Chilean sea arm of her defenses grew until it contained one modern battleship with 14-inch guns; one older battleship; three cruisers, 11 destroyers, nine submarines, a new submarine mother ship and new tender; several new naval tankers, two mine sweepers, a large school ship and lesser craft, bringing the total up to about 40 craft of all sizes.There were 300 officers and 15-000 enlisted men, including coast guard, naval stations' personnel and the naval academy. The navy's budget for 1931 lists 314 officers, of whom 455 are line officers, with an officers' salary list of 15,500,000 pesos (nearly $2,000,000).Naval courtmartial in connection with the recent revolt and the acute drop in national income have caused the navy's plans to be placed on a lower level, for the air corps now is looked upon as the first arm of defense, instead of the navy, on account of the victory of the planes over the ships in Comodoro Harbor.The enlisted personnel will drop to about 5000 under the new program. The officers' list will be reduced. The battle fleet, consisting of the flagship Almirante Latorre and other major vessels, will be tied up. Four destroyers and four submarines only will form the active squadron.It is no secret that the Government would like to get rid of the Latorre, which represents a total investment of $40,000,000, but there are no buyers. Japan considered the matter, but she has used her quota under the arms treaty.Newspaper Tariff in Canada Sought TORONTO, Oct. 12.—Immediate imposition of a tariff on Sunday newspapers entering Canada is asked in a resolution forwarded to Premier Bennett by Toronto Mailers' Union, No. 5. The resolution contends this would create more work in Canada for workmen engaged in production of Canadian weekly newspapers.

Hugh W. Thomasson Charges Persecution by Lawyers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR columns have contained from time to time comments on the various features of the vexatious litigation that we have been subjected to on account of our marriage last year, and we feel that you have tried to be fair and to acquaint the public with the aversion of some of the attorneys who have figured in these cases.

When we made what we thought was a compromise with attorneys prosecuting suits and claims against us on the first of last August and mortgaged the property at Broadway and Washington avenue to secure the notes given in settlement, we thought that would be the end of our troubles and we could again occupy our home and be able to live in peace. But this was not to be. Another law firm acting for C. E. Frederick filed deeds for our property which we declare to be forgeries and made it necessary to bring suit to cancel the deeds. As an answer to this suit, the defendant who is charged with the forgery, through Attorney Young, seeks to have me declared insane and wants Frederick declared to be our trustee. The same attorneys who represent the man charged with forgery have also secured several distant relatives to lend their names to proposed suits to have a guardian appointed for me and my property handled for their benefit during my lifetime. None of these relatives has ever consulted me or attempted to do anything for my benefit.

I wish the public and the press to be informed that I do not desire the unwelcome attention of these relatives or attorneys. I have made my own selection of attorneys who are representing me now, and I think that the public should know of the attempt of these other lawyers and so-called clients who are seeking to stir up uncalled-for and unwarranted suits to be enriched at my expense. I cannot understand how reputable attorneys can go so far without any action by the courts or bar associations to punish them for their actions. Is it going to be necessary for us to live away from here in order to have peace and freedom from legal persecutions? Will St. Louis and St. Louis County permit attorneys to so persecute us that we will be virtually driven away to escape their schemes to collect fees and expenses from us? The press can do more, I believe, to discourage such methods than any other force available.

Lagnappe.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WILL you be kind enough to define the word "lagnappe," which I see used occasionally in your editorial columns? The word is not included in any of my three desk dictionaries. What does it mean, where does it come from, and how does it apply to Missouri politics? Thank you.

Mr. Hoover's New Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR issue of Oct. 8 carries an editorial entitled, "To Start the Wheels." In this editorial you heap praise on our present executive, Mr. Hoover, for his wonderful plan to relieve the present depression. In fact, you state that "the President has struck a note of long-awaited leadership."

May I have the temerity to suggest that the note sounds false and that the plan will prove another dud? It seems that our present leaders cannot get it into their heads that what this country needs is not extended credit or more credit, but a more equitable distribution of wealth.

The Hoover plan may relieve the distress long enough to put him back into the White House for another term. But what about the aftermath? Don't you think the President would do much better if he attempted to get at the root of the trouble instead of seeking panaceas that only prove the bankruptcy of our political statesmanship?

Further, in your editorial you blame the present conditions on the "wretched betrayal of popular welfare" in the days of Woodrow Wilson. Have you so soon forgotten Teapot Dome? Surely the blackest blot against the United States started with the inauguration of March 4, 1921, and let us hope it will end with the one of March 4, 1933. In this period the American Government has been more corrupt and inefficient than the worst of Richard Harding Davis' Central American countries of fiction.

MORRIS LEVY.

DYNAMITE IN THE ORIENT.

It is evident from the ultimatums issued by both Japan and China that the two nations are on the verge of war. Japan demands that the Nanking Government and the Manchurian provincial Government take effective steps to protect the lives and property of the Japanese in China proper and in Manchuria. The Chinese Government demands that Japan evacuate all cities and territory in Manchuria which Japan has seized or attacked on the plea that such action was necessary to protect the lives and property of Japanese.

The Chinese seek intervention by the League of Nations to settle the controversy, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek declaring that if the League does not intervene or the Japanese do not withdraw their troops to the privileged zone around the South Manchurian Railway, China will go to war. The Japanese, on the other hand, decline intervention of any sort, and declare that they will take effective action unless the Chinese Government immediately take steps to protect the lives and property of Japanese.

The basic cause of friction between the Chinese and Japanese is Japan's possession of the South Manchurian Railway, which runs through the heart of Manchuria. This railway was taken over from Russia after the Russo-Japanese War, and is held under long lease by treaty with China. The Chinese claim the treaty was forced upon China, and while the Chinese have not attempted to throw the Japanese out as they threw the Russians out of the Chinese Eastern Railway, to their cost, they have tried in various ways to undermine and damage the railway system, but without success so far as getting rid of the Japanese. Japan has yielded practically every other concession and privilege in China, except a financial interest in the Shantung railway from Tsinan to Tsinanfu. The Japanese insist that they have exercised great patience in bearing the Chinese violations of treaties and Chinese attacks on Japanese, but are determined now to protect their railroad property and the lives and property of Japanese.

The long-standing hatred of the Chinese for the Japanese on account of the South Manchurian Railway and the clashes from time to time have been fostered by anti-foreign, and particularly anti-Japanese, propaganda resulting in anti-Japanese boycotts and riots. This hatred flared into flame recently due to the Wanpaohan incident, in which Japanese police, trying to protect Korean settlers from an attack of Chinese farmers, were accused of killing Chinese. On the other hand, Chinese were accused of killing Koreans, which resulted, as described in the news columns of the Post-Dispatch yesterday, in reprisals on both sides. Koreans mobbed Chinese in Korea; Chinese mobbed Japanese in China and Manchuria. In consequence of the Chinese attacks on Manchuria, Japanese troops, reinforcing the South Manchurian Railway police, occupied Mukden, the capital of Manchuria, and other places. The troops have gone out of their privileged zone contiguous to the railway in Manchuria, and this is the occasion ascribed for the Chinese call for intervention or war.

Undoubtedly the ultimate Chinese objective is to drive the Japanese out of Manchuria, but it is probable that the Nanking Government is taking advantage of Chinese hatred of Japanese and the activity of Japanese troops in Manchuria to unite all the Chinese factions in a common cause. Whatever the differences between the Chinese factions which have harassed the Nanking Government, all of them agree in hating the Japanese and in the desire to dispossess Japan of the South Manchurian Railway. A war with Japan would be disastrous to China. But if it unfitted the Chinese, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek and his party associated in control of the Nanking Government would feel that there was compensation for the Chinese sacrifice.

It is evident from the utterances of the Japanese press and the Japanese statesmen that the Japanese Government has decided to take action. Japan is determined to hold the South Manchurian Railway and all the mines and factories connected with it, and to protect both the lives and property of the Japanese in China. Undoubtedly when Japan does take action it will be drastic, and she will attempt to punish the Chinese more ruthlessly than the Russians did. Judging by the fiasco of the Chinese in the recent Russian clash, there can be little doubt of the power of Japan to carry out any plans she may undertake against China.

Although Japan may be able to force her will on China, it is impossible to foresee the consequences of a clash between the two nations, for, with the vast inflamed Chinese population, the consequences may not end with merely a defeat of Chinese troops. China's discontent and hatred of foreigners may lead to grave results. Then there is Russia to reckon with on the northern boundary of Manchuria, with ambition to penetrate it as she has penetrated Mongolia and to get an all-year port on the Pacific. The situation is full of menace to the peace of the world. There is dynamite in the Orient.

MISSOURI COMPLAINS OF CANADA.

Restricted to an open season of 30 days this year upon geese and ducks, Missouri sportsmen complain that Canada is not co-operating with the United States in our effort to conserve the game.

It is true that in most of the Canadian provinces the shooting season is longer than that in the United States. Only Saskatchewan, the province most afflicted by drought in the breeding region, has restricted shooting to 30 days. The Canadians say that an open season with them is not the same thing that it is in the United States for the reason that with the oncoming of winter the game goes south. They also point out that there are but 10,000,000 people in all of Canada, whereas in the United States the population is 123,000,000. That there are 100 duck hunters in the United States to one in Canada is indubitable. In the single State of Minnesota, the total number of persons taking out hunting licenses increased by 70,000 in 1930 over 1929.

It is unfortunate that the co-operative restrictions could not have been the same in both countries. In some instances they differ because the provincial legislatures of Canada have not met since the duck shortage became alarming. But Missouri is hardly in a position to complain of non-co-operation. When Canada entered into a treaty with the United States to conserve the migratory game birds, almost all the states of our own Union joined with the Government in prohibiting spring shooting. They realized that if the ducks and geese were not to become extinct, they could not be shot in the breeding season. But Missouri has never co-operated in any such way, either with Canada or the other states of our own Union. Her open season for migratory game birds extends from Sept. 16 to May 1. When spring comes, there is a state of anarchy in Southeast Missouri. The agents of the Federal Government have not been able to cope with the situation for years. They have even been fired upon by spring hunters.

Yet Missouri, in which ducks are shot at a time when they are about to nest, complains of Canada that she does not co-operate in conservation!

LOOKING FORWARD.

Now that the world series is over, and the Cardinals are again champions of the baseball world, it is interesting to consider what is to happen in years to come.

The Cardinals have now participated in four world series. The management has taken out of these world series approximately $475,000. This is money it would not have gotten except for the world series. Sportsman's Park, where we have seen the Cardinals engage in these post-season contests with two such great teams as the Yankees and the Athletics, seats approximately 40,000 people. That is, 40,000 people can be squeezed in; not all of them can hope to find seats. The capacity of the park is far below the capacities of many other baseball parks for such superb occasions. Only 19,000 seats could be offered to the public in the recent series after the regular patrons of the game were taken care of. The effect of this was to discourage a great many people who might otherwise have come to St. Louis to see the series. The fear of not being able to get in after making the journey was widespread.

The Post-Dispatch has several times urged the Cardinal management to remedy this situation by providing a larger playing ground. The Cardinals are the most successful baseball organization in the United States. Their St. Louis team has won the world championship. Their Rochester team first won the International League pennant and then won the little world series from St. Paul, which had won the pennant in the American Association. Their Houston team won the pennant in the Texas League, and only lost the post-season series with Birmingham of the Southern League by a hair. The Cardinals have nine farm teams, all of which are preparatory schools for the varsity team in St. Louis. That such a vast organization will not keep the Cardinals in front for years to come is improbable.

What, then, to do? If Mr. Ball, who owns Sportsman's Park, is unwilling to increase the seating capacity, or if it is impracticable to increase the seating capacity of Sportsman's Park, the Cardinal management, in justice to itself, to St. Louis and the surrounding hinterland, should provide a larger place of its own. The $475,000 which the management has taken out of four world series could not be better expended than to put it into such a venture.

SPEAKING OF SPEAKASIES.

Loyal sons and daughters of Missouri who always take an especial pride in seeing their State well up in any listing of the 48 members of the Union will be distinctly disappointed in the statistics on speakasies as compiled by Maj. Maurice Campbell, former Federal prohibition administrator for New York. In the Major's list, Missouri ranks seventeenth with 3000, and, at that, is tied with Oregon, Little Connecticut, Maryland, Montana, Louisiana, Washington and Iowa all outrank us. Such backward states as Indiana, Minnesota and Oklahoma press us close from beneath. However, Missourians need not be entirely without gratification. The smiling prairies of our neighbor to the east, Illinois, are dotted with no less than 40,000, enough to crowd New York for first place. Among the states at the bottom of the list is Wyoming, which is credited with 500. Numerically speaking, 500 are not very many, but judging Wyoming from a train window impression, they ought to answer its needs.

EXCLUDE NON-RELIEF AGENCIES.

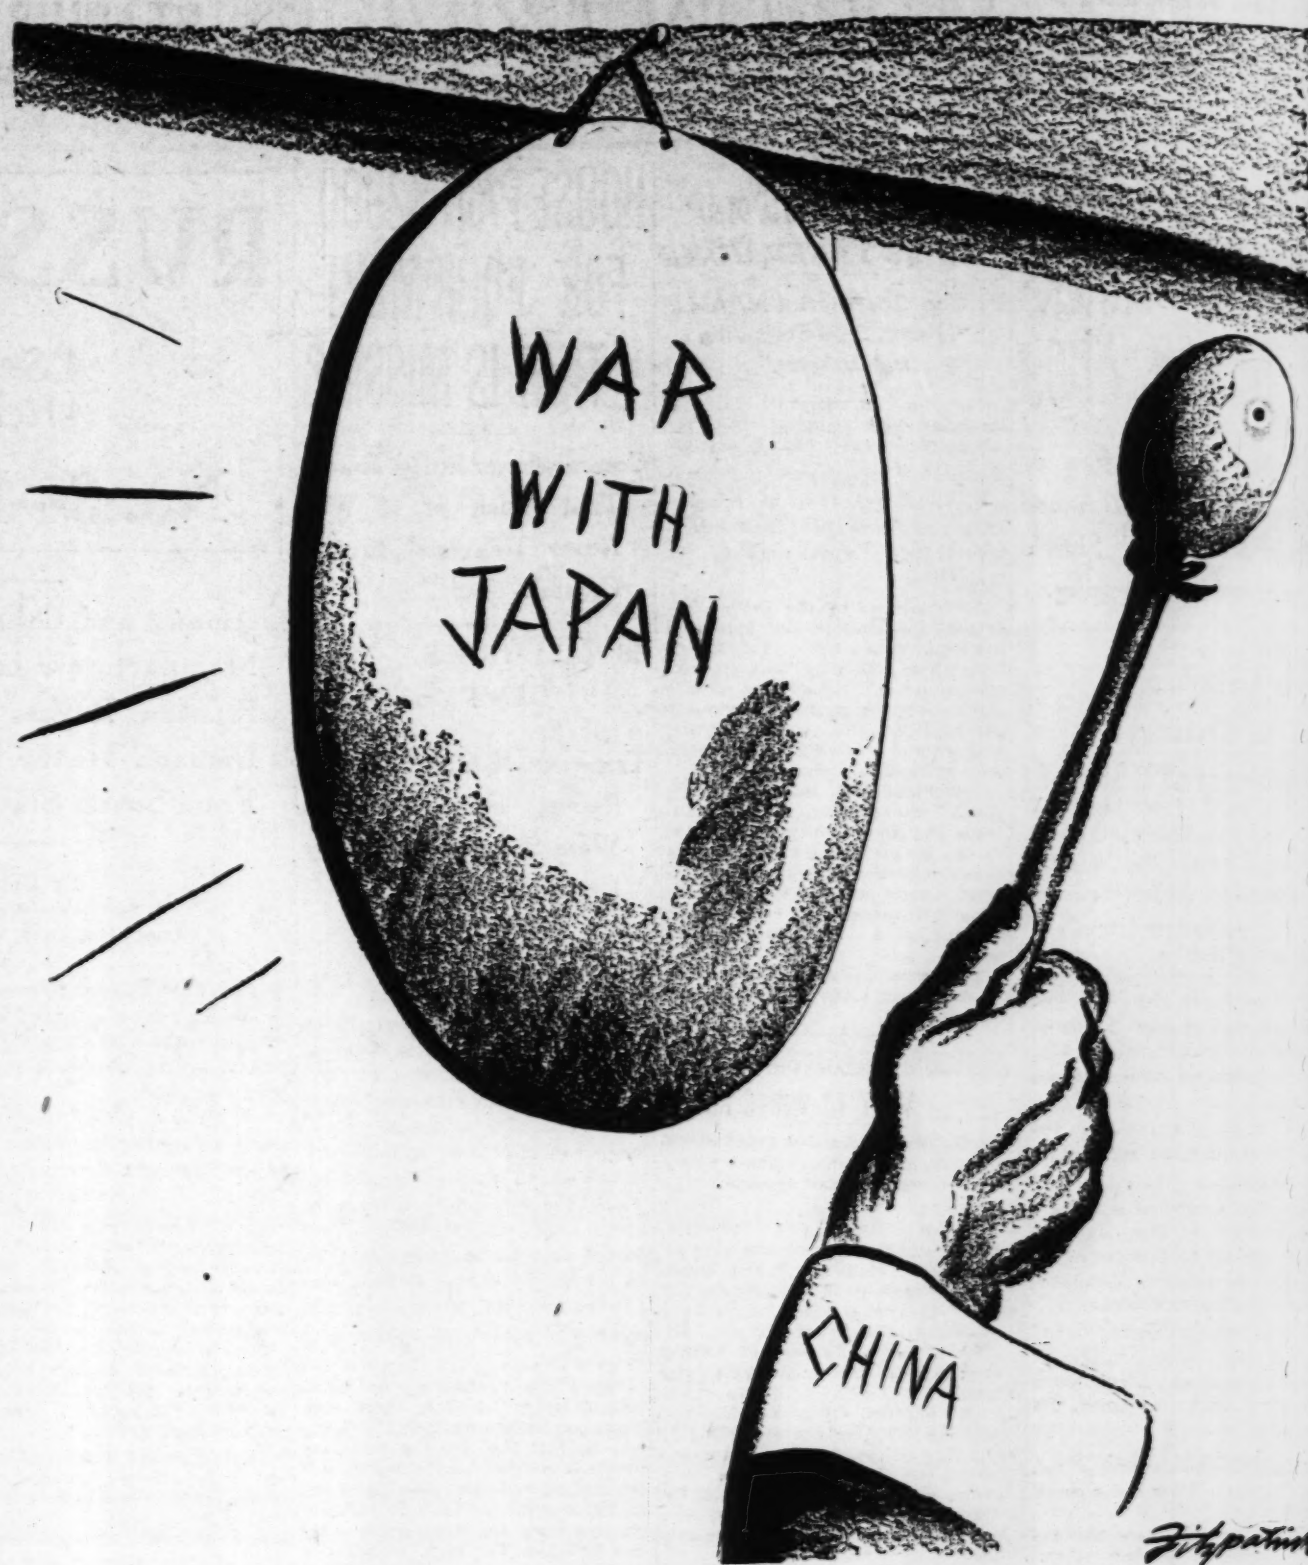

Many St. Louisans, who have been staunch defenders of the Community Fund in past years and liberal contributors, feel that a sharp cleavage should be made this year between agencies devoted to relief and those engaged in so-called charitable building activities. Of the latter, the Y. M. C. A. is most frequently singled out as an agency which should not receive contributions from the Community Fund, particularly this year, when an emergency confronts the city and all available funds are needed to stave off human misery. Last year it became necessary for a time to close the Provident Association, the chief relief agency, for lack of funds, yet the Community Fund allotted the Y. M. C. A. $132,701 out of a total budget of $393,357.

Surely values are distorted when an association of the character of the Y. M. C. A. receives so large a sum and unemployed men beg vainly for bread, clothing and shelter. In our opinion, this position of the Community Fund cannot be sustained, any more than it could be sustained in Baltimore and Cleveland, where a distinction has been made between the two types of agencies. In Baltimore, the non-relief agencies themselves realized the incongruity of the situation and voluntarily withdrew from participation. This is not, of course, in disparagement of character building organizations, but an attempt to cope with a distressing condition.

We trust the officials of our Community Fund have the good sense and judgment to exclude from the fund, this year at least, every agency which does not minister to the desperate needs of our unemployed citizenry. If they fail to do so, it is impossible to look forward to the success of the collection with any optimism.

EYES THAT SEE NOT.

Bird lovers, acquainted with the pioneer work in ornithology performed a century ago by John James Audubon, will regret to learn that all efforts to save his old house on Riverside drive, New York, have failed and that the crowbar will soon be wrenching its venerable timbers apart to make way for an apartment house. The pity of the situation is that the old mansard-roofed structure is admirably located for preservation in a park in a section of the metropolis lacking in parks. The Walker administration refused the site in favor of another without historical interest. Not only did Audubon paint his bright-feathered friends as they flew about the door of the old house, but there Samuel F. B. Morse conducted much of his experimental work on the telegraph. Furthermore, it was the birthplace of the Audubon Societies of America, a far-reaching organization, responsible for the Federal system of bird reservations and for the designation of numerous islands as refuges for sea fowls. About New York's short-sightedness we saw more did not St. Louis' slight to the childhood home of Eugene Field make such criticism unbecoming.

CALLING IN HER WARRING FACTIONS.

A German View of England's Crisis

Financial crisis has forced Britain to increase exports and reduce imports, thereby giving Germany more acute competition in world markets; wage reductions and fall of sterling lower British production costs, thus making her a more dangerous rival; these steps and cutting dole reduce England's safeguards against radicalism.

Guenter Stein in the Berliner Tageblatt (Reprinted from Living Age).

GERMANY has every reason to be disturbed by what is happening in England. She knows that whatever happens, the political crisis that has finally occurred will continue as long as the world economic crisis continues. For many years England considered this crisis merely a matter of production and markets, and has only come to recognize it as a chronic financial crisis within the past few months. Not without reason has England grown nervous.

Of course, this reaction to the English crisis is one-sided and egotistical, but it emphasizes the most important aspect of the crisis as far as we are concerned. Lower wages and lower incomes along the whole economic front, from the King to the railway man, plus reduction in unemployment benefits, and other social expenditures—that is what both the right wing parties demand, as well as some of the right wing members of the Labor party, including MacDonald himself. A 10 per cent tariff on all British imports, in addition to retrenchments and new taxes on the property owning classes—that is what the right wing parties demand, as well as some of the right wing members of the Labor party, including MacDonald himself, forcing him to resign his leadership.

One plan or the other or else a combination of the two is needed to prevent a big deficit in the budget. But all these measures lead, directly or indirectly, to lower wages and lower production costs. With or without a tariff wall, Britain's competitive power on world markets will increase. Exports will be forced and imports will be diminished. There is no other alternative, for it is even more necessary for England to export goods than it is for Germany, and England's crisis is fundamentally a crisis of the foreign markets on which her economic system is based.

For years we have competed comfortably enough with England, for England had a high wage level to guard its working class from radical tendencies and also expended comparatively large sums on the social services. The huge burden of war debts raised taxes and production costs. Last but not least, rationalization was proceeding rapidly.

All this must and will be changed. For the crisis has become a financial crisis. The world has begun to doubt the stability of sterling. Foreign countries are looking askance at English capital investments. And here, at the very time when the world's best British investments in Australia and South America are declining in value every day. The combined pressure of the economic and financial crises has now led to a political crisis, which in turn will force England to export at all costs, with or without a tariff wall.

But this is looking at only one side of the present British dilemma. From the point of view of world politics, the situation is equally important. By cutting wages and reducing the social services, England is reducing the social and economic basis of the emigre population, comprising a great proportion of the educated and cultured Russia of the old regime, has become a notable factor in the intellectual life of the countries which shelter it.

British trade unions and by the bulk of his own political party is the beginning. What will follow no one knows. But whatever happens, the political crisis that has finally occurred will continue as long as the world economic crisis continues. For many years England considered this crisis merely a matter of production and markets, and has only come to recognize it as a chronic financial crisis within the past few months. Not without reason has England grown nervous.

From the German point of view, it seems to us futile to prophesy whether or not the economies will be made in every field, contrary to the desires of the trade unions, or whether English finances will be remedied by a tariff, as the trade unionists advocate. For experience has taught us that neither solution can be permanent. Any improvised financial program only stops one leak in the present economic system by opening up another. Every financial measure cuts in two directions, and sooner or later leads to greater difficulties. Either alternative, economy or tariff, can win the support of some majority in Parliament and perhaps also attract a majority among the people themselves. It is therefore probable that all methods will eventually be necessary in the struggle against the threefold crisis—commercial, financial and political.

Only from this point of view, and not from the point of view of foreign policy, is it immaterial to Germany how the new coalition Cabinet sets about its work, how long it stays in power, and how it is replaced. From the point of view of foreign policy, there is no more favorable constellation, as far as we are concerned, than MacDonald as Prime Minister and Henderson as Foreign Secretary. Germany has every reason to follow the English crisis, and not only the Cabinet crisis, with the closest attention.

EXILES FROM RUSSIA.

Alexander Naxosoff in Current History.

SOMEONE has said that the post-war years have witnessed the birth of a new nation, that of the Russian emigres. Indeed, the million or more Russians who were flung across the borders of their native land by the explosive force of the revolution, form, as it were, a world of their own. They have repudiated Soviet Russia and have been repudiated by it; Moscow does not regard them as Russian citizens. But most of them have not yet become citizens of any other country. They have been forced to scatter on so-called "League of Nations passports" to China, Jugo-Slavia, Brazil, India—in fact, all over the world.

What account have these people given of themselves? The question admits of no simple and single answer, for the refugees are from all walks of life, from varied occupations, and each has not met with the success of the other. Without exaggeration it may be said, however, that the Russian emigre population, comprising a great proportion of the educated and cultured Russia of the old regime, has become a notable factor in the intellectual life of the countries which shelter it.

Straining Japan's Patience.

From the Osaka (Japan) Mainichi.

AS a sincere advocate of peace, we view with grave concern the recent development of the situation between China and Japan. These two countries owe it to themselves and to the world at large to maintain perfect harmony and order in the Far East. Providence has willed that they work in unison for the promotion of the happiness and prosperity of the teeming millions in the Orient. They are not in a position to be snarling at each other over petty issues that can be settled amicably with a smile.

Japan was not slow to admit the mistakes she committed in her earlier relations with her neighbor republic when the time to do so arrived. With the Washington conference as a turning point, Japan's policy toward China underwent a radical transformation. Both the Government and people began to regard the Chinese nation with fresh esteem and friendly trust. In this new spirit, Japan conceded every privilege which had in China, which, in the light of her new attitude, it seemed only just to return. There are certain other concessions which she is prepared in the course of negotiations to relinquish. Japan has, besides, done China more than its service in the recovery of its important rights such as tariff autonomy and in her steady ascendancy as a member of the comity of nations. In short, Japan's policy toward China during the last decade has been sincere friendship and sympathy.

The recent turn of affairs in China is compelling the Japanese people seriously to question the wisdom of the attitude they have pursued. They are losing faith in friendship as a factor of international harmony. They are asking, "What good has the decade of friendly efforts toward our neighbor done?" To their endless grief, they realize that in return for their kindly services, the Chinese—the Government and the people—are bent upon provoking trouble with the Japanese. They are ever eager to stir hostile sentiment among their people against Japan. They seem to derive much joy from slighting Japanese dignity in the eyes of the world. Is it too much to ask among the Japanese the opinion has become current that the modest attitude has failed and that the only way to deal effectively with the Chinese is to be stern and strict?

History attests that the Japanese are a patient nation. They have displayed marvelous capacity to endure wrongs committed by other nations. The Chinese appear to be well aware of this peculiar Japanese trait; otherwise they would not be pushing their slanderous plots so far. What they seem to overlook is the fact that there is an insupportable limit to human patience. And history also records that, once the Japanese lose their patience, they hit their enemies mighty hard, quite willing to face any consequences attending such action. Should the Chinese fail to realize the danger in time, we fear that there will occur a disastrous culmination.

For the welfare, then, of both nations and of the Far East in general, we cannot help asking the Chinese leaders to change their insolent affront to an attitude of moderate friendliness toward Japan.

QUERIES ABOUT WAGE CUTTING.

From the Commonwealth.

THE Steel Corporation's action raises several questions. Will wage cutting, which now affects industry generally, be indulged in out of reason and season, or will organized labor plus the public conscience impose a sufficient restraint? Why were the big distributions out of earnings, which characterized the years of prosperity, not diverted in part to building up unemployment funds? The answer is, of course, that industry was utterly unprepared for such slump as now prevails.

ANNOUNCEMENT

WITH unshaken confidence in the basic soundness of America's industries, we decided upon a program of expansion on the first of this year, despite the universal business depression.

We had every reason to believe that this was not the time for retrenchment in manufacturing activities,—slowing the wheels of progress or pinching the purses of workers by retarding employment... Consequently we take pride in announcing the completion of our new modern yeast manufacturing plant, involving an investment of over two million dollars.

However, we do not court the credit for the achievement. It belongs to the bakers throughout the country. They have made possible this expansion by their recognition of our efforts to supply a superior product for their purpose, and by conveying their acknowledgement of a better quality with their patronage.

THE PLANT THAT "QUALITY YEAST" BUILT

At Old Bridge, New Jersey

New 2 million dollar yeast manufacturing plant on our own land of 19 acres at Old Bridge, East Brunswick Township, New Jersey, 40 miles from New York City and 60 miles from Philadelphia. This new plant is producing Anheuser-Busch Yeast exclusively in conjunction with our St. Louis plant, the largest of its kind in the world.

GUS WINKLER KEPT IN JAIL

Sought to Lower Bond So He Could Have Eye Treated.

By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 13.—Gus Winkler, St. Louis criminal, failed yesterday to get the District Court here to lower his bond on a bank robbery charge so he might obtain medical treatment for an eye injury suffered in an automobile accident near St. Joseph, Mo., last August. He is charged with participation in the $2,500,000 Lincoln National Bank holdup last year.

His attorneys filed an application for writ of habeas corpus, but said at the hearing they only wanted the bond lowered. They asserted the $100,000 bond was unreasonable and physicians testified Winkler needed medical care. Judge Fred Shepherd refused to reduce the bond and Winkler returned to the State penitentiary to await trial.

NEGRO CONFESSES KILLING FAMILY OF FOUR ON FARM

Discharged Workman Says He Beat Employer and Wife to Death as They Slept, Near Berlin, Md.

THEN KILLED TWO CHILDREN WITH GUN

Bodies Were Saturated With Oil and Burnt Rags Indicate Attempt to Fire House.

By the Associated Press.
SNOW HILL, Md., Oct. 13.—Orphan Jones, 60-year-old Negro suspect in the killing of a family of four on a farm at Berlin, Md., was reported by Deputy Sheriff Randall Purnell to have confessed the murders late today.

Jones, Purnell said, told officials that he beat Green Davis, 55-year-old farmer and his wife, Iva, 38, to death as they slept in their farm home, then killed their two children, Elizabeth 15 and Mary Lee, 13, with a shotgun. Jones had worked for Davis for three weeks up to Saturday night. At that time the men quarrelled. Jones was discharged.

The body of Davis was found yesterday in bed beside that of his wife, Iva, on the second floor of their farm home. Bodies of the two girls—Elizabeth and Mary Lee—were in a bed in an adjoining room. The girls were high school students. Shotgun slugs had been fired into the bodies, and the killer had bludgeoned his victims with an ax. Pieces of burnt cloth were under the beds, indicating an attempt to fire the house, and the bodies had been saturated with coal oil. The Negro was arrested last night by police at Ocean City. In his clothing police said they found a pocketbook and other property identified as belonging to members of the Davis family. A class ring of the younger girl was on one finger.

In a corner on a back porch, covered with blood, Sheriff Purnell found the ax thought to have been used to hack the bodies of the family.

EINSTEIN FOR ANY CREED

THAT WILL BRING HAPPINESS
Individualism and Capitalism Have Failed, He Says, Suggesting Collectivism.

By the Associated Press.
VIENNA, Oct. 13.—Prof. Albert Einstein doesn't care what political creed the world adopts; if it brings happiness to the human race, he's for it.

In an interview published tonight by the Allgemeine Zeitung, the German scientist suggests that individualism and capitalism have failed, collectivism might be given its chance. "It's happiness we're after," he said, "and when the day comes which brings man redemption from his sufferings I won't trouble about the name of the political doctrine. If it be Communism which brings mankind salvation, you'll find me an enthusiastic Communist."

LEGION POST HEAD MURDERED

Fired on From Auto in Front of Hotel in Brooksville, Fla.

By the Associated Press.
BROOKSVILLE, Fla., Oct. 13.—Herbert Smithson, City Attorney and Commander of the Brooksville Post of the American Legion, was mysteriously killed here last night by a bullet fired from an automobile.

He had just dined with Judge John U. Bird of the Florida Circuit Court and Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Kelly at a hotel and was fired on as he stepped into the street. Alex Holman, the hotel proprietor, said another car followed the automobile from which the shots were fired. He said there were three men in the first car. Authorities advanced the theory that the gunmen mistook Smithson for some one else.

Four Persons Tied Up, Three Put in Lockers at New York.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Uncut diamonds, valued at $45,000 to $50,000, were stolen last night by two men who held up Morris Suderov, his brother, Abraham; a stenographer and an office boy in the Suderov brothers' jewelry show-room.

The stenographer, Miss Rose Rich, was tied hand and foot with flashing cord which one robber drew from his pocket. Abraham Suderov and the office boy, Edward Arnold, were also bound, and the three were placed in steel lockers. Morris Suderov was tied to a chair.

These five questions are vital to any refrigerator buyer. Promise nothing until you have a definite "YES" to each question.

1. Will it pay liberal dividends in food saving and lessened operation cost?
2. Does it have a modern hermetically sealed unit in the top out of sight that insures trouble-free performance?
3. Will it operate efficiently in "Dog Days," under pantry shelves, in wall recesses and other places where there is little natural air circulation?
4. Will it not only stop but start up automatically when unusual conditions interrupt operation?
5. Is it good looking, and does it offer such conveniences as a usable flat buffet top, broom-high legs, maximum shelf space, temperature selector in the right place, etc.?

Westinghouse answers all five questions with an emphatic "YES." Not even the smallest detail has been overlooked by this

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 13.—The State Finance Department today approved plans for merger of the Security Bank of Edina and the Hurdland State Bank at Hurdland into a new bank to be located at Edina.

The new bank will be named the Security Bank of Edina and will have $25,000 capital. The resources of the two banks total approximately $159,000.

Ingrown Nail Turns Right Out!

Pain Stops Instantly!

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it cannot penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

RATE CUTTING BY BUS LINE ORDERED STOPPED

Illinois Board Charges Company Underbid Rivals in Intra-State Service.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 13.—Eviction of the law by the Western Coach Lines was ordered stopped by the Illinois Commerce Commission yesterday.

This company, the commission charged, is an interstate carrier transporting passengers between Davenport, Ia., and St. Louis, with a route between Rock Island, Mo., Mine, Monmouth, Peoria, Alton, Springfield, East St. Louis and intermediate points. The company is not authorized to do any local business in Illinois, except between Springfield and Alton, which business is transacted under a lease agreement between the company and the Central Illinois Bus Line Co., which was excoerated in the order.

The company's agents, in soliciting patronage for intrastate transportation in Illinois, often offer rates for such transportation lower than those charged by competing railroads, the commission stated.

In order to make it appear that such transportation is interstate in character, the commission explained, the company sells the passenger a ticket from a point in one state to a point in another, either at a rate less than that regularly charged for transportation between the intrastate points involved or with the promise of a refund. Also, the commission found, the company picks up passengers in Illinois, carries them into Iowa and then back into Illinois, from which point in Illinois they are carried to their intrastate destination.

The commission's action was based on complaints filed by the Illinois Terminal Railroad, Burlington Transportation Co., Black Hawk Motor Transit Co. and the Rock Island-Alton Bus Co.

The Commerce Commission cited three more truck lines to appear before it to show cause why they should not be held to be public utilities operating in violation of the law and why such other action as may seem proper should not be taken against them by the commission.

The three companies and the dates on which they are cited to appear before the commission in Chicago follow: Transit Cartage Co., Chicago, Oct. 17; Evans Transfer, Galesburg, Oct. 20, and Corn Belt Motor Express, Galesburg, Oct. 21.

In another order issued by the commission the Tri-City Transportation Co. was authorized to issue and sell $5000 aggregate par amount of its common capital stock so as to net the company not less than the par value of the stock.

FIVE RHODES CANDIDATES AT UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI

Two Will Be Chosen to Compete With Entries From Five Other States.

By the Associated Press.
COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 13.—Five University of Missouri students, Herbert E. Dyer, Kansas City; Allen Gold, Sedalia; William H. Harrison, Cape Girardeau; Harold R. Kline, Columbia, and William J. Sanborn, Independence, were named today as candidates for Rhodes scholarships.

They will appear with candidates from other Missouri schools before a State committee which will nominate two to compete in the district tryouts. Besides Missouri, the district comprises Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota.

The two named by the district committee will study at Oxford University, England.

OPERA COMPANY SUES HOTEL ON PLEDGE AS GUARANTOR

Chicago Organization Seeks $1000 From Memphis, Tenn., Establishment to Help Pay Deficit.

By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 13.—The Chicago Civic Opera Co. filed suit for $1000 against the Memphis Hotel Co. in Chancery Court here today in efforts to collect funds pledged as a guarantee against a financial deficit in the presentation of three operas in Memphis last February.

The opera company claims the cost of the Memphis opera season was $45,000 and receipts were only $14,747. The hotel company was named as one of the guarantors which agreed to pay at least $20,000 of any deficit, its share being $1000. Of the $20,000 guaranteed, only $4000 remains unpaid. The other guarantors have signified their willingness to pay the remainder, the opera company's attorneys said, providing the courts hold the hotel company is liable for its pledge.

"BIG BILL'S" YACHT AT STAKE

Court Petitioned to Sell $200,000 Craft to Pay $85 BILL.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—The Doria, clipper-trimmed yacht of former Mayor William Hale Thompson, was at stake in an admiralty lawsuit yesterday.

The Calumet Shipyard & Dry Dock Co. petitioned the United States District Court to have the $200,000 craft sold to meet a claim of $83 for repairs, which, the shipyard claims, was not paid by the former Mayor. The Doria is one of the fastest and finest yachts on the Great Lakes.

OPPOSES TRIAL WITHOUT JURY EXCEPT WHEN REQUESTED

Judicial Reform of Illinois U. Prof. Backed by State Bar Association.

By the Associated Press.
URBANA, Ill., Oct. 13.—Limitation of jury trials to defendants who request them is the highlight of a judicial reform program advocated by Prof. O. L. McCaskill of the University of Illinois college of law.

"Trial by jury is one of the fundamental rights guaranteed by the constitution, but under this proposition we may limit the number of jury trials by requiring the defendant in each case to request a trial by jury rather than have the proceedings take that form without question," Prof. McCaskill said. He also suggests the defendant pay a small jury fee in advance of the trial.

Prof. McCaskill has taken the proposal up with attorneys in several State judicial districts. It is part of a State-wide campaign of education opened recently by the Judicial administration of the Illinois Bar Association.

GOVERNOR SAYS CRIME CHALLENGES ILLINOIS

Emmerson in Address at Albion Church Urges More Interest in Government.

By the Associated Press.
ALBION, Ill., Oct. 12.—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson, who started his business life as a clerk in the Albion general store, returned to his birthplace Sunday and delivered an address on the duties of citizenship. He spoke in the Little Prairie Church, which the Emmerson family attended for years. Established on the farm settled in 1817 by Gov. Emmerson's grandfather, the Little Prairie Church was celebrating its 103rd anniversary.

After relating briefly, the progress of Illinois and the United States in the 103 years since the church was established, Gov. Emmerson turned to a discussion of today's problems in government, declaring that organized crime is one of the greatest menaces to good government.

Likens Crime to Cancer.
"Like a cancer, the curse of the gangster has grown up quietly, while we failed to recognize the danger," Gov. Emmerson continued. "He has reared a government that most of us can only imagine a super power to challenge the government under which we have lived for more than a century and a half."

"The only answer is for each and every man and woman in Illinois who is interested in the cause of government, who believes in untrammelled conduct of public office, for the good of all, rather than the few, to take an active part in the political life, of his community, state and nation. Put one-half the interest into protection of your own interests that the gang politician puts in his, and the cause of good government in Illinois will take such a leap forward that its echoes will be heard throughout the nation."

Praises Founders of Albion.
Gov. Emmerson said "It is to the kind influence of Albion that I attribute a large degree of credit for whatever success I have achieved in life."

"Edwards County, while the smallest in the state, has played a big part in Illinois history," he said. "We owe much to those early English settlers who founded the colony here, and whose influence played a major part in the shaping of the destiny of our commonwealth in its early days."

"Loyalty, service and sacrifice are the outstanding characteristics of the founders of that colony. Their legacy to us is spiritual rather than material, and to enrich our own lives we must follow the example of human understanding and mutual assistance, which they have left us."

DEATH OF E. W. THIELECKE: 40 YEARS AN EDITOR AT CAIRO
Had Only Recently Removed to Home of Daughter at Villa Ridge.

CAIRO, Ill., Oct. 12.—Edward William Thielecke, 76 years old, for more than 40 years editor of the Cairo Bulletin, died Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. William E. Rife, at Villa Ridge, from cerebral meningitis, with which he was stricken two days before.

Mr. Thielecke was born in Germany but was brought to this country as a child and had spent practically all of his life in Cairo. He became editor of the Bulletin shortly after it was purchased in 1880 by E. A. Burnett and served in that capacity through several changes of ownership until 1925.

Since his retirement he had lived alone here but last week was prevailed upon to take up his home with his daughter at Villa Ridge. Funeral services were conducted at the Grand Chain Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

CAPACITY NUMBER INDICATED IN ILLINOIS EGG LAYING RACE

Entries in Contest to Begin Nov. 1 Come From All Over United States.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 12.—Entries for the 1931-32 egg-laying contest, to be conducted by the State Department of Agriculture at Quincy, Kanakake and Murphysboro, indicate a capacity enrollment at all of the experimental plants, Stuart E. Pierson, director of Agriculture, was advised today by E. G. Horner, chief State poultryman. The new contest year will start Nov. 1.

Entries now in the office of the poultry chief represent a number of the country's most prominent poultry breeding establishments that have not entered the Illinois contest in recent years. They come from as far east as Mount Pelier, Vt., and from the Pacific Coast and from the Canadian border to the Gulf. There is a large list of Southern Illinois poultry breeders with entries in the Murphysboro unit.

The best reason for having a telephone, as one telephone user says, is not having one. Consider the many things a telephone does for you:

1. Brings the grocery boy...when the weather is bad outside...when you've forgotten something...when you're tired.
2. Breaks the monotony of long afternoons, when you visit with friends and relatives.
3. Puts your name in the telephone book to direct friends to your home.
4. Gets the doctor quickly when there's illness in the family.
5. Tells out-of-town friends about the baby, about sickness, about having fried chicken when you drive up this week-end.
6. Tells police there's a burglar in the house...firemen there's a blaze in the basement.

ROBBERS IN HISTORIC CHURCH

Safe Blown Open in "Old Pine" Presbyterian in Philadelphia.
By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13.—Robbers entered the basement of "Old Pine" Presbyterian Church, one of the oldest churches in the country, blew the door off a safe, but got nothing yesterday. They strewed records over the floor.

Four silver communion plates which have been used for more than 100 years, were taken from the safe, but left on the floor. The land occupied by the church was donated by Richard and Thomas Penn in 1764.

When your Child begins to Droop

EVERY parent knows the fear that clutches at the heart when a child begins to grow pale, listless, when the appetite fails; when wonder "What can it be?"

What hours of anxiety would be saved if parents knew that in thousands of such cases the trouble is a very simple one, and easily remedied!

Even in a healthy child, food wastes throw poisons into the body. There is a protective fluid (the secretion of the colonic membranes) which is supposed to fight and carry off these poisons. Sometimes this fluid, for some reason or other, fails.

Almost immediately you see in your child the symptoms of what doctors call "self-poisoning." The appetite fails, the breath gets bad, the tongue is coated. Resistance against germs is low—the child catches cold easily, or perhaps even more serious diseases. School time is lost—the health of the whole adult life may be affected.

Science however comes to our rescue. A natural substance has been found which acts in the same way as the protective body secretion, fighting and carrying quickly away the life-spoiling body poisons. This is harmless Nujol—colorless and tasteless as pure water. Your doctor approves, because it is not a medicine and contains no drugs.

Be sure your child takes it regularly—every day. Now watch the appetite come back, the eyes get bright, the spirits soar! Three quarters of all children's sickness vanishes before crystal clear Nujol, that you can get for so little, at any drug store.

Hear Jenny Wren—KWK—9:00 to 9:15 Next Tuesday Morning

Listening Folks? Here's Inez Wilson, broadcasting the secret of her famous

Dutch Apple Cake

Which thousands of women who tune in regularly on Station WREN say is one of the most delicious cakes that ever came out of an oven. And one of the simplest and most inexpensive to make.

By INEZ WILSON
Director, Dept. of Home Economics
Jenny Wren Company

Each year, thousands upon thousands of letters come to me from women and girls—and those letters make me feel mighty happy. Because so many tell how one or another of my talks over Station WREN has enabled some woman to make her family happier as the result of one of my favorite recipes.

Today I want to tell you about one of my most popular cakes, and give you the recipe that will enable you to bake it perfectly every time you try. It's called Jenny Wren Dutch Apple Cake, and here's what goes into it.

2 cups of Jenny Wren Flour
¾ to 1 cup sugar
1-3 cup shortening
1 egg ¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla

(And for the Top Dressing)
3 apples, each cut in 16 parts
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1-2 cup of sugar
2 tablespoons butter

Cut shortening into dry ingredients. Add beaten egg and vanilla to milk. Combine with dry ingredients. Spread in shallow bread pan 10 x 6 x 1½ inches. Spread top with butter.

Incidentally, ask your grocer for JENNY WREN WHEAT CENTERS—that delightful new breakfast dish in the big 32-ounce package.

Copyright, 1931, Jenny Wren Co.

Press apples into dough, points down. Sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar. Bake for 25 to 30 minutes in hot oven (400° F). Serves six. May be served with lemon sauce.

The first time you try this recipe, you're going to discover what thousands of women are discovering every year. And that is—the real secret of good baking is good flour... and the most satisfactory flour any woman can use is Jenny Wren. The reason, of course, is obvious.

Jenny Wren is actually a new kind of flour. It makes good baking quick, easy and sure because all the hard-to-mix dry ingredients are blended into it in the exact proportions necessary for perfect results.

When you use Jenny Wren, you do not add baking powder, salt, soda, yeast or any other leavening agent. You take no chances on inaccurate measurements or omissions. It's just one—two—three and the work's all done. And done to perfection.

Your grocer sells Jenny Wren and stands behind each package with a guarantee of complete satisfaction or your money back. He knows, as I do, that if you use it a week you'll use it for life.

Says Man of Future Will Be Far Superior to One Today

Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, Anthropologist of Smithsonian Institute, Predicts Greater Developments Than Those Already Made.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
ROLLA, Mo., Oct. 13.—Man of the future may develop into a state as much above present-day man as the man of today has developed above his Neanderthal ancestor, according to Dr. Alex Hrdlicka, curator of the division of physical anthropology of the Smithsonian Institution of Washington, D. C., who spoke on the subject "Man's Present, Past and Future According to Present Scientific Investigations," before students and faculty of the School of Mines and Metallurgy here.

Dr. Hrdlicka said: "There is nothing but substantial scientific hope as to man's future." He said the question was frequently asked as to whether or not man, like some other extinct animals, might not develop up into a high state and then through some unforeseen reason become extinct himself. Dr. Hrdlicka did not think that any such thing might happen to man, for the reason that man has learned to control the natural influences surrounding him to an extent no other animal has accomplished, and through this control of natural influences he stated man would continue for an indefinite period.

Dr. Hrdlicka reviewed the field of the study of man from its inception down to the present time, saying every educated man should be given a wholesome abstract of the knowledge regarding man himself. Speculation regarding man and his origin began six centuries before Christ among the philosophers of that time. He said the story of man's origin as recorded in the Old Testament was not original among the Hebrews, as the Babylonians and the Egyptians had conceived this idea of creation before the Jewish time. The ancients regarded the earth as the mother and the sun the father of every living thing, and hence it was only a step to refer the origin of man to a clod of earth.

has been engaged in scientific anthropological studies, and predicted that greater strides in unraveling the mysteries of man's origin would be made in the future than in the past. In 1802 the first group of men was organized in France, for the study of man, but they were forced to disband by religious prejudices. In 1845, when the first anthropological association was organized, again in France, the 12 men responsible for the organization pledged their liberty and property that nothing would be said against religious teachings, and the police attended every meeting. Then in 1859 came Darwin's "Origin of the Species," out of which has grown present-day anthropological studies.

Dr. Hrdlicka said that he did not believe that man had developed from an ape or monkey, but a more or less far-away cousin of these. What man developed from was a long line of beings, far superior to any ape known, and yet inferior to man. They were beings who did not walk upright, had receding chins and great ridges over their eyes, in his opinion. The human beings first appeared and began to develop among these somewhere in the Western part of the old world. The Western part of the world has existed for a period ranging from four to five hundred thousand years, Dr. Hrdlicka said. He told of the accidental finds in various parts of the world that led to the conclusions as to the types of these beings and the time they had been in existence.

Ancient man, practically since his first known appearance on earth, utilized flint as a weapon and a tool, but it took him 400,000 years to develop up to the stone age. With the polished stone came a sense of the beautiful, a sign of the awakening of the mind.

Dr. Hrdlicka said that every man was a part of nature. Every organ that man possesses is simply a duplicate of similar organs and similar functions in other organisms. Man is just as plastic, impressionable and changeable today as he has ever been, Dr. Hrdlicka said, and expressed the opinion that greater developments in man would take place in the future than has taken place in the past. He said that if one went back 15 centuries to the German, French or English families, he would find that these characteristic people of today did not then exist. He said that a race of people of distinct characteristics is slowly developing in America today, just as the Germans, French and English have developed, and similar developments are also going on in South Africa and Australia.

TEAR GAS EXPLOSION BLINDS GUARD AT STATEVILLE PRISON

Cartridge Goes Off Accidentally in His Hands; 33 Convicts Made Ill.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 13.—Nicholas Geuther, guard at the Stateville penitentiary, was blinded and overcome by explosion of a tear gas cartridge yesterday and 33 convicts in the solitary cell house were affected, some of them overcome.

Oren Coleman, assistant warden, said the cartridge discharged accidentally while the guard was holding it. Geuther and another guard were together in the cell house. Blinded, Geuther and his fellow guard shouted for help and as the tear gas spread into the nearby cells the convicts set up a concert of yells. Guards rushed into the cell block with rifles, expecting to find a riot in progress. They hurried Geuther to St. Joseph's Hospital, Joliet, where physicians said he would recover.

The convicts were not seriously affected, Dr. Frank J. Chmelik, prison physician, said, although several complained of blindness and several were ill enough to be taken to the penitentiary hospital.

AIR LINE FROM MEMPHIS TO KANSAS CITY AND MINNEAPOLIS

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 13.—Thad G. Landon, son of former Circuit Judge Thad B. Landon, has announced that a newly organized air transport company which he heads will begin Oct. 29 an air passenger line from Memphis to Minneapolis. The company will use tri-motored craft, Landon said, and make intermediate stops at Springfield, Mo.; Des Moines, Ia.; and Kansas City, which will be division point.

The new line will connect with the Northwest Airways at Minneapolis, the National Air Transport at Kansas City and the American Airways at Memphis. The company's organizer said one ship will traverse the 800-mile route each way daily.

Landon said the necessary craft for the service have been purchased and are in the process of manufacture. They will be tri-motored, 10-passenger ships equipped with radio.

Reforms in Minnesota Prison.

By the Associated Press.
ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 13.—Prison disciplinary practices recently criticized by the Wickersham Commission were changed by the State Board of Control yesterday. Handcuffing of inmates to cell doors, used in many preceding unusual discipline, was ordered abolished. Beginning Nov. 1 prisoners may talk at more periods during the week than previously.

ADDITION OF 15 PER CENT FOR CONTRACTORS' PROFIT ILLEGAL

State's Attorney-General Rules on Practices of Buchanan County Court.
By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 13.—The Attorney-General's office today issued a number of questions arising as the result of an audit of the books and records of Buchanan County. One of the opinions held that the Buchanan County Auditor is not entitled to compensation for handling school funds.

Another opinion held that it was illegal for the Buchanan County Court to use a "15 per cent plus" plan in awarding road contracts.

The practice had been to award a contract for a certain amount and allow the contractor a 15 per cent profit on work. The opinion held that the competitive bidding under the day laborer contract plan should have been used.

The legal department held that the Buchanan County Court cannot pay more than 30 cents a day toward housing state prisoners and that the excess amount over 40 cents a day for Federal and city prisoners could be used in upkeep of the jail or for other purposes.

New Government in Bulgaria.
SOFIA, Bulgaria, Oct. 13.—King Boris installed a new Cabinet yesterday in succession to that of Premier Mialoff, who resigned on account of ill health. Former Minister of Interior Muschaffoff became Premier and Foreign Minister. Jorganoft left the Ministry of Public Works to take over the Interior Ministry. Stefanoff, former President of Parliament, was appointed Minister of Finance. The other members of the old Cabinet were reappointed.

Cashier Pleads Guilty of Fraud.
SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 13.—Charles A. Ferguson, former head of the defunct State Savings Co., here, serving a 5-year sentence in the penitentiary for fraud, appeared in Federal Court yesterday and entered a plea of guilty to Federal mail fraud indictment. Brother, E. N. Ferguson, Sr., also officer of the defunct trust company, also faces a mail fraud charge. Charles A. Ferguson was returned to state prison and Federal sentence will not be passed until his brother's case is disposed of, probably in December.

SQUIBB DENTAL CREAM

ONCE SKINNY ... LIFELESS

—now the peppiest girl on a party!

And has gained 12 lbs. on just 3 packages of this "double-action" tonic

SEE that girl step! Look at her laughing eyes—her naturally pink cheeks—her cute figure. Could you imagine her being thin and sickly—her being an also-ran at parties? Today—peppier than all the rest. Just a few weeks ago—"not having as much fun." That's Miss Walters before, and after taking an amazing new tonic treatment. But let her fill in the exciting details:

"I used to weigh only 100 lbs. When I went to a party I danced just like anyone else but I didn't have as much fun. Now after taking three packages of Ironized Yeast, I weigh 112 lbs. and am much peppier than all the rest.

"The girls at the office asked me where I was getting all the pep and I told them from Ironized Yeast. Now there are nine girls and four fellows in our office taking Ironized Yeast." Audrey Walters, 4029 No. Market Street, St. Louis, Mo.

What a pity to go out and only half-enjoy yourself—to go to business and only half-do your work! Stop half-living! Get your health up to par—no indigestion, no constipation, no quick-fatigue. Bring your figure up-to-date—no scrawny hollows, no sharp angles, no too-flat lines. Thousands have found it easy—with Ironized Yeast.

Secret Formula

Countless attempts have been made to imitate Ironized Yeast. All have failed! For the Ironized Yeast formula is a unique scientific discovery—working on an entirely "different" principle: It regulates the whole system while building up the tissues. Ironized Yeast contains imported "beer yeast"—selected for extra richness. This famous yeast is concentrated to seven times the health value of ordinary yeast. In addition, it is ironized—by a patented process—with three distinct kinds of strengthening, blood-enriching iron. What other tonic can give you this genuine "double-action" treatment?

GUARANTEED BENEFITS! In countless cases, this pleasant-tasting tonic tablet has rounded out scrawny arms and legs, hollow chest, thin face—and skin troubles, constipation, weakness. If the very first package does not help you, too, its cost will be promptly refunded by the manufacturer.

BEWARE IMITATIONS! Don't take chances with unknown substitutes. Insist on genuine Ironized Yeast. Look for "I. Y." on each tablet. At all drug stores. Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Seven Helps In Trying Cough

Coughing is a better help than coughing. It combines seven major helps in one, to do the best that men know for any cough. There is eucalypti, the world's most helpful—blended, emulsified and made into a delicious, palatable, child-friendly bark, menthol, ipcaea. Each is best for a certain type of cough. But even doctors might agree on what is best for your cough. So experts have combined in Cough all major helps in one. The result is a cough medicine that deals with all conditions in a most effective way. No narcotic in it. Coughing is for people who wish to do the utmost. In coughing.

SHARKEY FLOORS CARNERA AND GAINS DECISION IN 15 ROUNDS

ITALIAN SHOWS GREAT COURAGE; BOXES WELL BUT LACKS A PUNCH

Sharkey Demands Title Bout With Max Schmeling

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—JACK SHARKEY today was demanding a fight with champion Max Schmeling as a result of his victory over Primo Carnera. "I don't see how Schmeling can duck me now," he said this morning. "I proved by beating Carnera that I am entitled to a chance at the German."

Schmeling withdrew from a promise to meet Sharkey, after the "four" episode of last year and also backed out of a contract to fight Carnera after the Cleveland title bout.

New York is still wondering at Carnera's surprising stamina, courage and sound defense against Sharkey, in a fight that was fairly even for the first eight rounds. Sharkey put up a great fight and practically nullified Primo's right hand, which is supposed to carry his knock-out punch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—The bigger they come, the better Jack Sharkey likes it, and Primo Carnera, for one, won't venture to deny it.

In the same ring at Ebbets Field where he found 170-pound Mickey Walker a tough job a few weeks ago, Sharkey blasted his way to a decisive victory on points over the 260-pound Carnera last night and bounced himself right back to the forefront of challengers for Max Schmeling's heavyweight crown.

While a surprisingly large crowd of 30,000 looked on, Sharkey went to work methodically on the big Venetian and resolutely cut him down to size. Before the Boston sailor's hand was raised in token of victory after 15 rounds of spectacular milling, Sharkey had floored Carnera for one nine count, closed one of the Italian's eyes and had given him so savage a beating that Primo was on the verge of a knockout on a half dozen occasions.

But if the fight reinstated Sharkey to his position as a leading contender it served also to remove any lingering doubt as to Carnera's courage and stamina. The huge Italian failed to exhibit his vaunted punch, but he demonstrated all kinds of courage. Subjected to punishment severe enough to have finished almost any other heavyweight, the Italian man mountain still was in there, offering what resistance he could when the final bell sounded.

Carnera surprises Sharkey. Through the first three rounds and a part of the fourth Carnera amazed Sharkey and the crowd with his speed and skillful boxing. Using a left hand a la Tommy Loughran, Carnera stabbed Sharkey off balance and had the American floundering about wondering what it was all about.

But the whole complexion of the fight changed in a flash in the wild fourth round, when Sharkey, after taking a cutting in the clinches, suddenly lashed out with a left hook that dumped the huge Carnera on the canvas with a dull thud.

Gunboat Smith, the referee, started to count. At six, Primo, stunned, pulled himself to his feet with the aid of the ropes, but went down again without being hit, the referee, within his discretion, either may disqualify the offender or resume the count. Referee resumed the count. Referee resumed the count.

As Primo went down on one knee again, Sharkey tore across the ring and shouted:

"He went down without being hit; he's disqualified; count him out."

But Smith waved him aside and continued his count. Sharkey, mad with rage, tried to climb over the ropes, but his manager, Johnny Buckley, pushed him back.

Under the rules, Smith was within his right in resuming the count. New York State Athletic Commission regulations provide that if a fighter goes down, gets up and goes down again without being hit, the referee, within his discretion, either may disqualify the offender or resume the count. Referee resumed the count. Referee resumed the count.

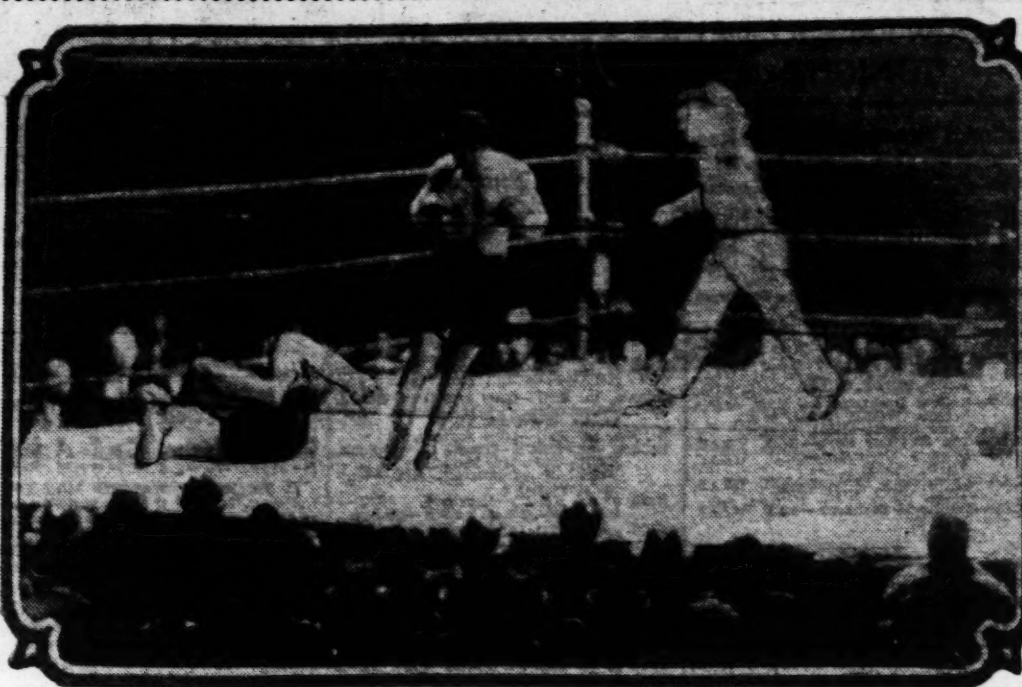

By the time Sharkey was ready to resume Carnera was on his feet, leaning against the ropes.

The battle was on again, but Carnera never was the same. Through round after round he took a merciless beating as Sharkey, using his left hand almost exclusively, hammered away at head and body. At times, left hooks to the body bent the chin sent him reeling on his heels or bounced him to the ropes.

In the final round, Carnera was barely able to keep his feet as Sharkey nailed him time and again with lefts and evens tossed in a right cross or two.

Carnera won only one round, the third, and this only by a narrow margin, the thirteenth. The others all went to the Boston sailor. Carnera weighed 261 pounds, Sharkey 202½.

The Man Mountain Appears to Be All Upset

Primo Carnera, 260-pound Italian heavyweight, was floored in the fourth round of his fight with Sharkey, as shown above. He resumed fighting and lasted the fifteen rounds. The referee is Gunboat Smith, himself a famous fighter.

WIRAX'S COLUMN

Classified at Last.

WELL, at last we know how to classify the Man Mountain, Primo Carnera. He is neither the superman that his giant frame led many to believe, nor a big imported cheese, as some scoffers insisted.

While decisively beaten by Sharkey, the man listed by the New York Commission as the heavyweight champion of America was unable to put Primo away in 15 rounds. Reports state that "it was anybody's fight for the first eight rounds," after which Carnera tired. In staying the limit, he showed stamina and courage; and in the course of the fight reports state that he amazed Sharkey by his boxing knowledge and sound defense and had the edge for three rounds.

Can't Land His Right.

BUT the fight also showed the weakness of the Giant. It is that again, much smaller and faster men he is unable to land his right hand, which is supposed to carry his hay-maker. Carnera has the punch, but he has not yet learned how to land it on a rapidly shifting target.

Carnera's trouble is poor coordination. He sees the opening, but can't launch his blow before the opportunity has passed.

The fight makes it plain that while Carnera is shown to be vulnerable, there are very few fighters who can beat him. He is capable of giving any of the heavies of today a real argument. And, as he is still only 25 years of age, he may improve enough to be a title factor before another year has passed.

The fight makes it plain that while Carnera is shown to be vulnerable, there are very few fighters who can beat him. He is capable of giving any of the heavies of today a real argument. And, as he is still only 25 years of age, he may improve enough to be a title factor before another year has passed.

Naturally, the proponents of the second opinion, are not standing on street corners shouting about it. They have due regard for the fact that after all Martin did more than any individual to bring the championship to St. Louis and is entitled to credit for the achievement. Also, they might not be able to outrun the outraged opposition if they raised their voices too loudly at this time. But they stand on the edge of the arena.

"Never Close to Knockout" Primo Says, After Bout

(Copyright, 1931.)

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—Primo Carnera, asked for an opinion of his fight with Jack Sharkey, said today: "I was not especially groggy when Sharkey floored me. Indeed, I saw Sharkey in the center of the ring at the count of five and then saw him all but diving under the ropes when I arose. Jack thought the referee was unfair in blocking him from hitting me. Jack was excited."

Well, perhaps John had his fingers crossed when he made this statement; for, after all, there is no better than Simmons. In nonconference battles Centralia trounced Carlyle, 33-8, and Lawrenceville beat Georgetown, 12-6. Olney played a scoreless tie with Palestine, and Salem lost to West Frankford, 6-4.

SI RELIEF AND ESCOBALAND PAY $40 IN 'DOUBLE' AT FAIRMOUNT

By Damon Kerby.

FAIRMOUNT TRACK, Oct. 13.—Escobaland, bay filly by Escobaland Flucht, accounted for the second race here this afternoon in a driving blanket finish in which Olga took second place and Point Final, third. Escobaland's time for the six furlongs was 1:18 1-5 and she paid $29.86.

Si Relief, four-year-old chestnut gelding by Prince Pal, carried the odds of C. M. Trout to victory in the third race at one mile and a quarter with Mozart, the favorite, second by six lengths. Toman was third. The time was 2:16 and the winner paid $12.44 for a $2 ticket in the mutuels.

Si Relief, with Art Pendergass in the saddle, stayed under restraint during the early running of the race, with Mozart following closely. Mozart, carrying much of the crowd's money, gave the spectators a thrill when he pushed into the lead after passing the half-mile point. He held the lead until turning into the stretch, where Si Relief, under urging, closed the gap and separated himself from the leader, and then came on to win as he pleased.

The race at a mile and a quarter, was the first at that distance since the running of the Fairmount handicap. The track was a sea of mud and when the horses passed the judges stand the faces of the jockeys were plastered with mud.

"Double Refund" $40.16. Si Relief, with Escobaland in the previous race, formed the combination that paid $40.16 in the "daily double" pool and 150 winning tickets were held by investors of a total of 2732 tickets sold, it was announced.

The favorite came through to victory in the fourth race, when Take Off, owned by M. J. Whalen, won by a length and a half over Senora Seth, with Sorrento third. Take Off broke on top and was in the lead at all stages of the race. The time was 1:52 1-5 and the winner paid $5.52.

Despite the adverse weather, about 4000 spectators were on the grounds when a field of 11 starters for the first race, which was a six-furlong sprint for three-year-olds, J. V. Pons' Captain J. S. ridden by Jockey Joe Gilbert was the public choice at less than even money.

Captain J. S. got away to a poor start, and although he showed a burst of speed in the stretch, his effort was not enough to overtake the pacemakers. He finished third to Col. Bob and Run Maid.

Col. Bob came up in the final jumps to the wire to overtake Run Maid for first money.

The winner's time was 1:18 and he paid the good price of $12.75 for a $2 ticket on the nose.

The track was extremely sloppy, and a steady rain which showed no sign of a letup, was falling when the racing program got under way.

NORTHWESTERN AND NOTRE DAME SOUGHT FOR POST-SEASON GAME

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—Mayor Anton J. Cermak today said he would request Northwestern and Notre Dame Universities to play a post-season football game for charity in an effort to boost receipts of Gov. Louis L. Emmerson's relief fund.

The suggestion will be placed before the City Council by Mayor Cermak, with a request that the body appoint a committee to place the proposal before authorities of both schools.

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

THOMASSON KIDNAPING DENIED IN STATEMENT

Document Signed With His Name Attacks Testimony in Incompetency Suit.

With a hearing scheduled in Probate Court today on a petition to have Hugh W. Thomasson, wealthy retired real estate owner, declared incapable of handling his own affairs, a statement addressed "To the Press and the Public," over Thomasson's signature, has been made public by Wilfred Jones, lawyer for Thomasson's young wife, the former Grace Caroline Mahood.

The statement, according to Jones, was prompted by publication of testimony that five persons had seen Thomasson kidnaped by his wife last January while they were estranged. Thomasson, according to Jones, was "very hot," about the testimony and dictated the statement to his wife's Negro maid, who is also a typist.

Jones, who said he knew nothing about the statement until it was given to him, signed, yesterday, said Thomasson and his wife departed a short time afterward, for Kansas City.

"I do not think the court should hear such testimony from persons who have no claim on either me or my property," the statement reads. "If they are second cousins and care anything for me, they should be decent enough to wait until my decease before setting up any claims to be my heirs. So much for their claims."

Answers Incompetency Charge.

"Second, as to Mr. Rogers (Stephen C. Rogers, former Thomasson's lawyer) claim that I am mentally incompetent and have been for five years or more, I wish that he would explain why he was willing to act for me and to make any contract for me and with me all during that time. He and I, with others, organized the Chestnut Realty Co. five years ago. He was secretary and I was president. He has had business dealings with me continuously since 10 years back up to last January, when I found it proper to dismiss him. He then instigated several suits against me and now seems to be the real active party against us in these proceedings. I think that the Court should not have permitted my former attorney to violate the privilege that is supposed to exist between lawyer and client by which what they learn concerning the client's affairs cannot be disclosed without the client's consent. If my former attorney gave his testimony earnestly concerning me, then he should offer to return the fees and profits he has taken from me."

Kidnaping Story "Spite Work."

"The revival of the kidnaping charges against my wife is spite work. My deposition filed in court settles that point. I am making no charge against her and never authorized anyone else to make one. If my relatives and alleged friends are considerate of me, they will let us alone and discourage any notoriety or the bringing of suits against us. As soon as we can get our own income we will take care of all our financial obligations. Our residence is in St. Louis County and not St. Louis City.

"Anything that can be said or done to relieve the embarrassment of unfavorable publicity that we suffered from now will be greatly appreciated."

The assertion as to place of residence apparently is a reference to the fact that the hearing today is scheduled in the St. Louis Probate Court instead of the Probate Court of St. Louis County.

Seek to Cancel Gifts.

The testimony which Jones said prompted the statement was given in Circuit Judge McElhinney's court at Clayton Saturday in the course of a hearing on an application brought by Thomasson's relatives for leave to intervene in the receivership suit now pending against Thomasson. The relatives, who asked that about $200,000 of mortgages executed by Thomasson in favor of his wife be set aside as the Charlotte Louise Welborn of Lincoln County, Missouri; Elmina Townsend, George Smith and William Smith, all of St. Louis.

Rogers testified at the hearing Saturday that he did not consider Thomasson competent to handle his own affairs.

DRY LAW WARRANT ISSUED FOLLOWING RAID ON FARM

Still Seized and Three Arrested There Name Alleged Lessee.

A Federal warrant charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws was issued today against John L. Horras of 3642 O'Meara avenue, as a result of statements of three men arrested last Tuesday at a still on a farm at Bloomsdale, in St. Genevieve County. Horras is said formerly to have been a musical instrument dealer.

In the raid, the Federal agents seized a large still and arrested three men who identified themselves as George Boretta, Frank Lamana, and Tony Zivkoff. The agents reported that while they were at the farm Horras drove up in his automobile, from which the seat cushions had been removed, and when told of the seizure said, "I'll have to get back to St. Louis and see what I can do for the boys."

Later, it was announced by Deputy Prohibition Administrator Dillon, the three men said that Horras had leased the farm, had taken two of them to it, and had assisted in setting up the still. Horras denied it.

CHAPTER XXIII.

SOMETHING like a little moan escaped Fanchon. He turned quickly, he asked in anxiety:

"Evelyn, what is it? You are not yourself."

"I'm all right," she answered, and then, seeing a chance to establish her plan, Tony's plan, she added. "I have, perhaps a slight headache."

Collin continued, unheeding:

"You have not been yourself since this Cesare Gilli turned up, out of the blue. Who is this man, Evelyn? What is he to you? What hold has he over you?"

She replied, her heart beating rapidly:

"None. Collin, don't be absurd. I've told you all about him. He is just a friend."

"A friend," he said, shrewdly, "who makes you tremble, whom your eyes follow in fear, before whom you alternately pale and flush. Come, I will not believe it. Is there anything troubling you? Is it that he, perhaps, knows of that time in Hawaii? Oh, don't draw away from me, Evelyn! Tell me the truth. Is the man threatening you with the exposure of what was simply an idiotic escapade? Because if so, the remedy lies in your own hands. You have but to tell him simply and at once that I and my mother are aware of the matter. Or—was there something you didn't tell me . . . concerning it?"

"And if there was?" she asked, simply fighting for time.

"As if that would matter! Nothing would matter. Not even if you told me you had loved another man once and been to him what a what you can never be to me," he groaned.

She said, unsteadily:

"I did love another man once. As girls love, quite unthinkingly. But I—I was nothing to him. Nothing—important. I swear that I've always been my own," she said, strangely, "I've never belonged to someone else."

"Was this man . . . Commander Gales?" he asked her.

"Oh," he said, instantly, "don't answer . . . I have no right to ask or to know."

"He was not," she said. "I think you should know that much."

A SUDDEN suspicion seized him. "Gilli, then? With whom you broke, who has followed you, who may accuse you by his importunities? Of course, Gilli! He was blind not to have seen."

She did not answer. She could not. It was true. And yet it was untrue.

"Oh, Evelyn," Collin said, with a more complete loss of self-control than she had ever witnessed in him. "I have been a blundering idiot. And I have used this man as an excuse to stay here longer . . . an excuse to be near you. I should, I realize, have gone long ago. Perhaps I should have run from you that very first day in the rose garden . . . when we quarreled, and when against my will I fell in love with you . . . he said, trying to speak more lightly, "but it was—Kismet, I suppose. I—I fancy that perhaps my thinking you were afraid of Gilli and wanting to stay near you, was all so romanticizing. If, as I now believe, you were once in love with him and are no longer, that would, of course, account for your attitude with him, your reluctance. It is a situation which is not unusual and you are capable of handling it yourself. So nothing remains for me except—to go away."

There was a silence. He said, sharply:

"Evelyn? Evelyn? Why," he said, "you're crying!"

"No. That is," explained Fanchon, shakily, "I'm trying very hard not to. Tears," she went on, recovering herself a little, "may be appropriate to Juliet, but they'll be noticed."

"That means," he said, brushing her attempt at lightness aside, "that you do care for me! Oh, tell me, Evelyn. Let me take that much sorrowful comfort away with me."

"Yes," she told him, simply, "I do care, Collin."

After all, she had nothing to lose by her confession for she had already lost—everything.

HE reached out his arms, he took her close to his breast and kissed the closed eyes and the

She Had Two Careers As a Picture Star

MADGE EVANS.

Madge Evans, Who Won Fame as a Child, Reappears in Hollywood and Becomes One of the Film Colony's Most Charming Leading Ladies.

By H. H. NIEMEYER (NIE)

Certainly, I don't want to date the start of my professional life from the kindergarten.

MADGE came back into pictures with acclaim in her first talkie role opposite Ramon Novarro in "Son of India." She next did "Sporting Blood" and "Guilty Hands" and at present is playing one of the leads in "The Greeks Had a Word for It." She is exceedingly graceful and her features chiseled from a classic mould. Her crisp directness, her mannerisms, are reminiscent of Norma Shearer. Indeed, a similarity has already been noted by many fans and reviewers. She has the same fresh complexion of Miss Shearer, uplifted chin and cool blue eyes. But there the physical comparison ends. Madge has a turn of mind that is slightly larger than Miss Shearer, about five feet four inches tall and weighing (she says) 116 pounds. Whatever the weight, it is pretty much all liveliness and curves.

She was born in New York and never saw Hollywood until a few months ago, a strange fact considering her association with moving pictures for 14 years past. Her entrance into pictures was just one of those workings of Fate. It seems that Emil Chautard, a French director, was living at the Evans home, working over at Fort Lee, when Madge was a child. He needed a little girl for a picture and, fond of Madge, persuaded her mother to permit him to use her. The stilt personality registered big on the screen. Audiences wanted more of her and before she knew what happened, Madge Evans was a star, playing with such old-timers as Robert Warwick, Alice Brady, Ethel Clayton, Holbrook Blinn and Montagu Love. She played her first "grownup" role when she was 15, opposite John Barrymore in "Peter Ibbetson." Before quitting pictures she played another lead with Richard Barthelmess in "Classmates."

LEAVING films after playing with Barthelmess, Madge turned to the stage for serious dramatic training and experience as well as studying with private tutors in advanced English and other academic studies. After appearing on Broadway last year in "Phillip Goes Forth" she was signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the Novarro feature which brought her back to the screen.

"I was as thrilled over the prospect of seeing Hollywood, more so than the average movie fan," she related. "Naturally I was interested in pictures and people and had read all about. The stars I had known were gone. New personalities were in the spotlight of stardom. To me the ride in the train from New York to Hollywood seemed without end. When I finally landed on the platform of the station in Los Angeles I found myself in the midst of a bustling city I was disappointed. I don't know what I had expected but the city was a distinct shock to me."

"Before I had time to look up an apartment, I was hustled out to the studio to begin work. Day after day I went to the studio early in the morning and got home, dog tired, late at night. I was here almost a month before I even saw Hollywood boulevard. After I had a chance to look around and see the sights I discovered what a wonderful place it is.

A close-up of MISS EVANS.

"Everything changed, of course, since the Fort Lee days. It was like starting in on something brand new to me. My previous experience in pictures was no advantage whatever. I didn't even know how to put on the new kind of makeup."

"THE one familiar face I found was that of Emil Chautard, the man who put me in pictures when I was a child. He is a character actor now and writing French dialogue for foreign films. The thing that impressed me most, coming as I did from New York, was the thousands of homes that line the streets for miles upon miles. I couldn't rest until I got one of the gay little cottages and got putting around in a garden of my own."

"Yes, I would like to become a star someday. But I am in no hurry. I would rather climb slowly than skyrocket to dizzy heights for a while and then drop as suddenly as I went up. I have no choice of roles as long as the part contains some human emotion and is convincing. It is impossible, I think, to convincingly play a part that hasn't convinced you to start with."

New Furniture Has Mellow Finish

THE new furniture will have to look old.

This doesn't mean a new antique—real antiques have been in style for some time. Nor does it mean the so-called "antique" which prides itself on artificial worm holes, acid stains, gouged surfaces and chair-rungs worn out in the factory.

The new style is really a custom finish and comes from long study and careful craftsmanship which can put what collectors call "patina" on a new piece.

Those who like the brand-new shine of new mahogany or walnut are new brassy hardware may still have it. But those who are restlessly about the room in which his mother, together with some of her friends, were playing bridge, back into the ballroom, into the conservatory, and looked on the broad stairs which were covered with whispering couples. Finally, encountering his hostess, he said, as she exclaimed at seeing him, "So you've come back . . . how is she?"

"I'm looking for Evelyn. I haven't gone away."

"Evelyn? But she went home some time ago, with a terrible headache. I thought she went with you. She said to tell Jennie that she mustn't on any account come home earlier, as your account should be looked after by her maid," Mrs. Van Suydam said, in some astonishment.

An Old-Fashioned Cure.

When you feel a cold brewing and are resorting to the old-fashioned method of hot bath, plenty of covers and a hot lemonade, throw a handful of eucalypti and a handful of mustard into the bathtub with the hot water. It will relieve fatigue and help break up the cold.

Purses Match Hats

Some of the new purses are of stitched felt to match the stitched felt hats which have come into vogue. They have handles of lightweight wood. One envelope bag has a wooden bottom.

Men's Black Jewelry.

Black jewelry is a popular masculine adornment this year. Rings, wrist-watches and cigarette cases for men are fashioned of black enamel enhanced with onyx insets and silver and gold trimmings.

Gardenias, Magnolias, Etc.

Flowers having a very heavy scent should never be used for table decoration. The strong perfume in a warm room will take away the appetite of some people and cause others to feel quite ill.

A Better Reading Light.

When making attractive lamps for the bedroom that are to be used for night reading, it is wise hardware loses its glare and the low spots in the design are realistically shadowed.

On furniture made in period styles, this custom finish is especially appropriate. A new-looking reproduction of an antique seems out of tune with itself.

It isn't expected that the furniture with the new finish will take the place of antiques for those who are real antique collectors. But for many of us, especially in modern steam-heated apartments, the new furniture is probably much safer.

Some amateur collectors have discovered, to their sorrow, that real old furniture was made to be used in the days when houses were damp and cold. Old pieces which were at home in those houses, sometimes have proved very uncomfortable in their new homes and have dried out and become loose-jointed.

Unless the antique you want is really valuable and you can take good care of it, it may be more effective to use the new furniture that merely looks old.

Too Warm

When chocolate appears gray on the outside it does not mean that it is in any way spoiled. It has simply become too warm and some of the fat has melted and come to the surface.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Tree's Wet Feet

"I'm going to turn the tree down just a little bit," said the Little Black Clock.

"And you're going to see a fine tree in its best autumn yellow costume."

John and Peggy had been time to meet the Little Black Clock and he was never late.

Even though he could turn the time backward and forward as he wished because of the magic that had been given to him by the Grandfather Clock, still he was always on time.

At exactly the same hour he got down from his place on the top of the back hall where he lived, and went down the garden path which led into the magic path.

That was their meeting place, and then he took them to the far away and places near by.

His magic made it possible for him to give the children enough hours for sleep, so that they were never the least bit tired because of all these trips and adventures.

They hurried along until they reached the swamp the Clock had told them to visit. It was a very swampy looking swamp with leaves resting on the squawky ground, and everything was settling down in the wet, swampy swamp as though nothing had the wide energy to get up.

And there, in the center, was a beautiful tree with golden yellow leaves.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I have lived a rather modern life about things, but I cannot help getting a girl cheaper than getting a boy kisser. How one of my friends has said "old maid" will stay in the game! There is too much competition you think that I will let friends; that they will gradually drift away to girls who do not such prudish ideas.

That argument has been known from time immemorial not anything particularly new. There were always girls who and girls who did not make selves common (and ridiculous being too free to deal in immorality to make themselves popular. And no man who likes you enough to be honest with you agree that it ever has made popular. It's merely a p with some, and worth no consideration at all with others concerned. Then, you know if a man really cares for you doesn't want to find you cheap.

DEAR MRS. CARR: I have lived a rather modern life. I have a good home always drunk in good drink. I have been out with many girls this summer I met a girl who had been going with me and I had the desire for liquor and times, because she has made me what is worth while in my life. I have not been working some time and my parents can have anything I want as I stay single, but I will leave if I get married. My has heard that I am going and it has made her very angry. The girl has a steady job for us to marry this month. Do you think?
